POINCARÉ WILL ACCEPT CABINET MEMBERSHIP

Ex-Premier Promises Briand To Enter New Body
When Latter Succeeds Failure Of
Herriot Sunday.

By United Press
PARIS, June 21.—Ex-premier Raymond Poincaré has agreed to enter a cabinet being formed by Aristide Briand. Briand again undertook the task of building a government following complete failure yesterday of Edouard Herriot's attempts to complete a ministry.

His first act was to get in touch with Poincaré, who had left Paris to unveil a war monument in the Meuse.

"Poincaré has examined with me, all problems which require attention," Briand told the United Press today.

"He is still willing to collaborate in my cabinet which will include men capable of showing the country that politics must now be a secondary question.

"I shall call men of various parties, but all will be strongly Republican.

"The situation is difficult," he continued, "but I still believe that I can solve it, provided it is not poisoned by political considerations."

FIRE CAPTAIN ROY MENDENHALL QUILTS JOB; NAME IRELAND

Herman Fisher Made
Lieutenant—Fireman
Appointed

With two resignations submitted and accepted within one week, City Manager S. O. Hale is putting the Xenia Fire Department through the process of a thorough re-organization.

Captain Roy Mendenhall, who holds the longest record in point of service of any member of the department, has tendered his written resignation to Manager Hale. Roy Ireland, regular fireman for the past four years, was named captain to fill the vacancy.

The position of lieutenant, made vacant by the promotion of William Hannifan to be fire chief, has been filled by Manager Hale by the appointment of Herman Fisher. Fisher served as a special fireman or "sleeper" for several years before he became a regular fire-fighter more than a year ago.

Manager Hale also announced Monday the provisional appointment of Walter Buffington as regular member of the department. He has served as a special fireman for several years.

Mendenhall's signed resignation has been in the hands of the city manager for several days but was not acted upon officially until Monday. He has been a member of the department more than eight years and was elevated to the position of captain less than two years ago. It is understood he will enter business with his father, Richard Mendenhall.

Two vacancies on the department caused by the resignations of Fire Chief T. B. Claire and Captain Mendenhall have been filled temporarily by provisional appointments. Kenneth Dice was recently elevated to be a regular fireman.

Both Buffington and Dice will be required to take civil service examinations along with any other applicants before permanent appointments can be made.

ADVERTISERS OPEN WORLD CONVENTION

PHILADELPHIA, June 21.—Advertising "stabilizer of prosperity"—is the keynote of the convention of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World, the first general session of which was formally opened here today by President C. K. Woodbridge, of New York.

The greater part of the ten thousand delegates from 350 advertising clubs, of Europe, Canada, Australia, and the United States were expected to be in attendance late this afternoon when President Woodbridge delivers his welcome to foreign delegates.

DUGGAN ARRIVES SAFELY ON ISLAND

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, June 21.—Dispatches from Para, Brazil, reported the safe arrival at Vigia near the island of Maraca, Brazil, of Bernardo Duggan, Argentine sportsman and his two Italian companions who were making a New York to Buenos Aires sea plane flight.

They had been missing for a week.

The dispatches said they intended to continue their flight as soon as the supply of gasoline could be replenished.

FIRST ZINNIA

O. C. Custer, King St. and Fairground Road, reports the first zinnia, "Xenia's flower," in bloom this year. The bloom is cream colored, resembling a dahlia.

Mr. Custer says now and during July is the time to plant zinnias for late blooming.

VIOLENT DEATHS CLAIM 20

TRAGEDY EPIDEMIC SWEEPS STATE OVER WEEK END IS REPORT

Auto Accidents To Blame
For Most Of Fatalities

By THE UNITED PRESS
An epidemic of tragic deaths swept over Ohio over the week end with grade crossing crashes, automobile collisions, suicides and drownings the contributory causes.

Twenty deaths had been recorded before 8 a. m. and more than a score of injured were in hospitals, some of them expected to die.

As reports trickled in, they were compiled by the United Press with the following results:

CHILLICOTHE—Mrs. Harriet Ortman, 50, Chillicothe, and her daughter, Margaret, 21, were killed and another daughter, Inez, 25, was seriously injured when their automobile was demolished by a northbound Norfolk and Western train, at Delano, near here.

COLUMBUS—Louis Pearson and his son, Richard C. Pearson, 22, were killed when their automobile side swiped another vehicle. The occupants of the second vehicle escaped injury.

DELPHOS—Miss Ethelwyn Cowgill, 31, Marion, was killed and her companion, Cecil O. Summerlot, 31, also of Marion, was seriously injured when a west bound Pennsylvania flyer struck their automobile at a grade crossing near here.

TOLEDO—Fred Shell, 42, Toledo, was killed when an automobile crashed into the rear of his standing truck. Shell stopped the truck and had alighted to inspect his headlights when the crash occurred. Charles Clements, Detroit negro, was fatally injured when his automobile overturned.

CINCINNATI—Edward F. Geiger, 21, University of Cincinnati student, was drowned in the Ohio River when his boat capsized. John Noll, 16, Cincinnati, was fatally injured when his automobile collided with a truck here. Lloyd Clore, 19, Rising Sun, Ind., was killed when his automobile collided with a truck. Roy Wallace, Lebanon, O., was perhaps fatally injured when he drove his automobile into a bridge abutment.

NORTH ROBINSON—Mrs. David Shumaker, 45, killed when a passenger train struck her automobile at a grade crossing near here.

FINDLAY, O.—George M. Leary, 53, Findlay grocer, was electrocuted Sunday when a rheostat fell into a bathtub while he was bathing.

YOUNGSTOWN, O.—Irving Merlinger, 42, died suddenly here while wrestling with James Gething, a playmate. As Irving succeeded in pinning James' back, the former suddenly collapsed and died before medical aid could be summoned. The exact cause of death has not been determined.

COLUMBUS, O.—Police today were attempting to trace the motorist who hurled Mrs. Mary Price, 35, from an automobile here last night, causing injuries from which she may die. Mr. Price is unconscious. No motive for the act has been learned.

CLEVELAND, O.—Frank Kubbs, 40, Cleveland coal dealer, shot and killed himself at his home here during the night. Relatives said Kubbs had been despondent because his business had not been successful. He came here from Shelby.

LEO LOOS, 27, railroad worker, was killed when he fell from a car. Another man was seriously injured in a similar accident. Miss Ruth Appleman, 29, Detroit, a waitress was killed when she fell down an elevator shaft in the Courtland Hotel here. A safety gate had been left open, police said.

BELLEFONTAINE, O.—George Samuel Armbrust, 70, St. Paris, Ohio, was fatally injured when a standing automobile, its brakes becoming loosened, rolled down a hill and struck him. Armbrust was attending a picnic at the time.

YOUNGSTOWN, O.—The body of an unidentified man who leaped from a bridge here, was recovered today.

REPORT ATTEMPT TO MURDER AMERICAN

PEKING, June 21.—An attempt to murder an American woman described as Miss Manley, was reported today from Cheng Tu in the province of Szechuen. A Chinese reported to have attempted to strangle Miss Manley. Passersby rescued the woman and the attacker was arrested.

Jails "Count"

Mrs. Esther Wiseman, of Boston, caused the arrest of "Count" A. Paul Monte, society favorite, saying that he was plain Nicholas Wiseman, her husband, and the father of a girl of five.

CONVICTED SLAYER REFUSED NEW TRIAL UPON DEATH APPEAL

Clark's Last Recourse
Is Appeal To Governor

TOLEDO, O., June 21.—The sixth district court of appeals, in a decision announced today, denied a new trial to William Clark, Fremont youth, condemned to die in the electric chair for the murder of Ralph A. Hoffman, a farmer.

The court heard Clark's appeal Friday and Saturday, the decision being withheld until court convened this morning. Clark is sentenced to die on either the morning or afternoon of July 8. His only recourse now, it was pointed out, is an appeal to the supreme court or to Gov. Vic Donahey and the state board of clemency.

Clark's trial was one of the most sensational in the annals of Sandusky County. Hoffman and his wife were slain when they returned home suddenly and found young Clark looting their home. Clark was not tried for the death of Mrs. Hoffman.

The court sustained the youth's conviction throughout. No formal written opinion was handed down.

CHARLESTON DANCER ROCKS ROWBOAT AND SIX YOUNGSTERS ARE DROWNED

SAULT STE MARIE, Mich., June 21.—The tragic death of a young dancer of the Charleston, on the floor of a fragile rowboat in St. Mary's River late yesterday, plunged his home and those of five companions into mourning today.

The dancer was Arthur Tessier, 16, who recently won the junior Charleston championship of Sault Ste. Marie.

BATTLES SEAS

CLEVELAND, O., June 21.—After struggling with a high sea for an hour, Harold P. Camblin, Lake wood, superintendent of the Midland Steel Products Company, was pounded ashore in his thirty-five foot cabin cruiser, the "Minnehaha" Sunday. The Minnehaha's motor stalled and Camblin was helpless. The ship was not damaged seriously.

RECEIVES CALL

COLUMBUS, June 21.—Rev. Lewis P. Speaker, Carey, Ohio, has been asked to assume the pastorate of First English Lutheran Church here on Sept. 1. Rev. Mr. Speaker is pastor of Christ Lutheran church at Carey, with a congregation of 500. The local church has been without a pastor since the resignation of Rev. A. J. Holl, several months ago.

QUESTION MILLIONAIRE ABOUT FAILURE TO REPORT DONATION

WASHINGTON, June 21.—Albert M. Greenfield, Philadelphia millionaire, was questioned by the senate primary investigating committee today about his failure to reveal that he had given $125,000 to the Vore campaign fund when he testified previously.

Chairman Reed, read to Greenfield his testimony of June 9 when the witness had said his sole connection with the campaign was the solicitation of $50,000 for the Vore fund.

"Now it has since developed that you had more to do with the campaign," said Reed. "Tell us all you had to do with it."

"I had very little else to do with it," said Greenfield. "I knew at that time that the contribution I made would later become known. I answered questions and didn't volunteer any information. The newspaper men have made it appear there were some discrepancies in my statement."

"Well, the record speaks for itself," returned Reed.

Greenfield said he was chairman of the Vore businessmen's committee.

Wayne B. Wheeler, legislative agent of the Anti-Saloon League, who has been waiting for several days to resume testimony was notified he could remain at his office across the street until called.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 21.—Political leaders and Women's Christian Temperance workers were summoned today before senate's special committee, sitting as a grand jury investigating the $3,000,000 Pennsylvania primary.

Ten new witnesses were called as Chairman James A. Reed attempted to go to the bottom of two new tales which have developed out of the testimony charging corruption, excessive expenditures, forgery, shady dealings and fraud.

First Reed intends to ascertain why the gubernatorial vote was so long being counted.

Next Reed wishes to ascertain where the $250,000 fund went which was raised by the Pennsylvania W. C. T. U. to aid state prohibition. He has called Mrs. Maude T. Seymour, vice president-at-large.

It has been charged the money was used to further the campaign of Gifford Pinchot in the Vore-Peper-Pinchot Senatorial race.

EUCHARISTIC CONGRESS
PROGRAM

Addresses by Michael Cardinal Von Faulhaber, archbishop of Munich.

David I. Walsh, U. S. Senator from Massachusetts.

Louis, Cardinal Dubois, archbishop of Paris.

Archbishop Daniel Mannix, Australia.

11:50 a. m., Solemn Pontifical High Mass, with John Cardinal Bonzano, papal legate, as celebrant. The Mass will be sung by a chorus of 62,000 children from the Catholic schools of Chicago—the largest choir ever assembled.

Sermon by Archbishop Michael J. Curley, of Baltimore.

2 p. m., Sectional meetings throughout the city, with each tongue represented at the congress holding a meeting of its own.

(The English speaking meeting will be at the Coliseum).

COUPLE WOULD RATHER STARVE THAN SEPARATE

OWENSBORO, Ky., June 21.—George Sanders, 38, civil war veteran and his wife, 36, would rather starve to death than be separated.

Mrs. Sanders is confined to bed and Sanders, although he can get around, is too feeble to prepare meals. Their only source of income is the aged veteran's civil war pension.

When hospital attendants attempted to remove Mrs. Sanders, she drew a revolver from under her pillow. Sanders also exhibited a gun and the attendants decided it was better to leave.

"We refuse to be separated," Sanders said, explaining the display of firearms.

St. Marie. His five companions, who met death when the craft capsized from his unsteady footsteps, were:

Peggy McIntyre, 16; her sister, Annie McIntyre, 14; Emile Carey, 14; John Parsons, 13; and Clement Cornier, 13.

Isaac Jenicieur, 15 years old, seventh member of the party, alone was saved when he managed to cling to the bottom of the upturned boat. He told of the tragedy.

None of the bodies had been recovered early today.

CLEVELAND, O., June 21.—The heroism of Miss Nadine Morley, 19, prominent in Cleveland's social life, saved the lives of ten persons when fire destroyed the luxurious home of her father, John E. Morley, an attorney today.

The crackling of burning wood aroused Miss Morley at an early hour. Hastening from her boudoir, she awakened her father and as flames licked at the stairway, aided in arousing and leading other members of the household to safety.

The blaze originated near a fireplace in the living room. Morley's extensive law library was destroyed. Total damage was estimated at $50,000.

CONFISCATION OF MONARCHY'S TREASURE IN GERMANY FAILS

Opposition To Return Of Riches Is Still Apparent
However—Outbreaks Feared From
Opponents.

BERLIN, June 21.—Even though the failure of the anti-monarchist expropriation bill frustrates the confiscation of the former dynasty's treasure, estimated at half a billion dollars, it is by no means a foregone conclusion that these immense riches will be returned intact to their previous owners.

The government is still confronted by a powerful opposition which could not be disregarded at the risk of provoking serious political consequences and perhaps even violent outbreaks.

Following Sunday's referendum in which the move to confiscate the treasure was defeated, the government today announced it would immediately pass a compromise bill through the Reichstag, whereby the state retains part of this valuable property while the remainder is returned to the overthrown monarchs and their families.

One of the most significant features of the referendum is that 15,000,000 German citizens have reaffirmed their opposition to the old regime by voting for expropriation of the estates of their former rulers.

The final vote in the referendum yesterday stood:

For expropriation, 14,889,000.
Against, 540,000.

DRYS ATTACK RULE PERMITTING TONIC

WASHINGTON, June 21.—The treasury department today faced a new assault on its permits for manufacture of "malt tonic."

These attacks were renewed as a result of the action of Rep. LaGuardia, in present socialist, New York, in mixing malt tonic and beer to make a drinkable Muenchener-like beer publicly in the house office building Saturday. Drys insist the tonic permits be abrogated.

The treasury stood pat, insisting on the strength of a dictum from chemists, that the malt tonic is purely a tonic and that the LaGuardia beer making formula will not come into general use.

THREE DEAD AFTER FIGHT OVER WOMAN

WILLIAMSON, W. Va., June 21.—Three men were slain in a gun battle here over the week-end, and police are without any one to arrest. All the principals were killed.

Enis Roberts, 60, was shot to death by Mel Sisson, 40, in a dispute over a woman, according to police. Roberts' son-in-law, George Hardin, hunted down Sisson and they killed each other in the ensuing gun fight.

Crabbe held, however, that all improvements made on the piers and wharves are taxable. Buildings, stations and other improvements and extensions constructed on the piers are included as "improvements."

Affected by the ruling today were the C. & B. and The D. & C. Navigation Companies which operate steamship lines between Cleveland and Buffalo and Detroit and Cleveland, respectively. They have built extensive stations and improvements.

STATE OWNED PIERS ARE NOT TAXABLE

COLUMBUS, O., June 21.—Piers and wharves constructed along Lake Erie and owned by the state and leased to private corporations are not taxable, Attorney General Crabbe ruled in an opinion today.

The opinion was asked by county auditor Zangerle of Cleveland, who had attempted to include the piers and wharves in the county tax duplicates against steamship companies.

Crabbe held, however, that all improvements made on the piers and wharves are taxable. Buildings, stations and other improvements and extensions constructed on the piers are included as "improvements."

Affected by the ruling today were the C. & B. and The D. & C. Navigation Companies which operate steamship lines between Cleveland and Buffalo and Detroit and Cleveland, respectively. They have built extensive stations and improvements.

MESSAGE FROM POPE READ TO BRILLIANT CLERGY GATHERING

Children's Choir Of 62,000
Voices Feature
of Monday

CHICAGO, June 21.—Rain clouds hung low in the sky today, as great throngs moved toward this stadium to witness an ancient church bring forth gorgeous pomp and splendid ceremonies to assist its little children in honoring their Blessed Eucharist.

Children's day of the Eucharistic Congress, with a chorus of 62,000 voices to be raised in the mass of the angels, attracted the reverent congregation of untold numbers gathered in Chicago to pay tribute to Jesus Christ as God.

A high wind swept across the stadium from Lake Michigan, washing waves against the shore near the stadium as the first pilgrims began to gather at 3 a. m., several hours before the ceremonies were scheduled to start.

Many women were included among the early arrivals. Some carried knitting and sewing bags, prepared to pass the time until the start of the services.

Rain fell intermittently as the colorful crowd moved down the wide expanse of Michigan Boulevard and across the narrow viaducts spanning the Illinois Central Railroad tracks.

Nuns in black and white robes and priests in their monastic costumes or in civilian garb began arriving shortly after daylight.

The huge, golden altar, modeled after the one in St. Paul's without the walls in Rome, was outlined against the lustrous gray skies.

The weather was in contrast to the ideal June day, which marked the opening of the ceremonies.

All the Sunday ceremonies, including the installation of Cardinal Bonzano as papal legate for the congress, were held indoors with the exception of an ecclesiastical procession of four blocks to Holy Name Cathedral for the services.

While only 2,000 could crowd into the cathedral, another 50,000 stood in the streets under the hot midday sun for five hours listening to the music and sermons through the loudspeaking arrangements.

The keynote of the congress, sounded by Cardinal Bonzano, by a message from Pope Pius XI naming him as the papal delegate, and by Cardinal Mundelein, is to extend the influence of the Eucharist by bringing still greater numbers within its influence. Speakers called for a reuniting of the "separated brethren," meaning the eastern Catholic churches and they urged extension of missionary work.

Sunday's services brought together the most brilliant gatherings of clergy ever seen on American soil. Priests, monks, Missionaries, Bishops, Arch Bishops, Cardinals and the personal representative of the Pope filed into the cathedral shortly after noon after a procession through the kneeling thousands.

Today's services in the stadium gave the general public its first opportunity to witness the rich pageantry of the church. More than 100,000 persons were accommodated in the vast amphitheater. An overflow crowd nearly twice this size was forced to remain outside the gates near the Field Museum and listened to the services through amplifiers.

Buses discharged the children who will sing the mass of the Angels at the entrance to Grant Park at intervals of one minute. The girls, dressed in white, with uniform capes and the boys with white blouses, took their places in the center of the stadium with the youngest in the front seats.

They marched across the wide Pascoes leading to the stadium, escorted by their teaching sisters.

As soon as the children were seated, oranges were distributed to keep them contented and to clear their throats for the singing.

They swung into the stadium to the martial music of three bands, which kept up a constant play of martial music as the children paraded down the aisles to their places.

Visiting nuns took their seats on the side of the altar, presenting a picture of white with a black ground of black, in the seats rising forty feet high.

The weather had cleared and the silver and gold flags, with the stars and stripes fluttered out before the strong wind.

The children moved toward the front of the stadium in three columns, four abreast and gave the appearance of three long white ribbons, extending out from the front of the altar to the rear gate of the stadium, and for a mile down the winding boulevards to where they were leaving their buses.

A great cheer arose from the children as Prof. Otto Singenberg, who has been training them for their singing, took his place in the rostrum about 200 feet in front of the altar.

BUS SERVICE MAY BE RESTORED THROUGH TEMPORARY PERMIT

Bus service to the east corporation line of the city and to the O. S. and S. O. Home over the route formerly covered by the city street car, may again be available soon, in the opinion of city officials.

Service is expected to be supplied by O. E. Sturgeon, Xenia bus operator.

In an effort to solve once and for all the problem of transportation for former patrons of the city street car, City Commission went on record in a motion at its last meeting as favoring the granting of a bus franchise to Sturgeon.

Commissioners also instructed City Solicitor J. A. Finney and City Manager S. O. Hale to draft a franchise ordinance with the provision the service is to be unlicensed according to Sturgeon's written application, subject to any future modifications that are thought needed to meet conditions.

Sturgeon is unwilling to accept a long franchise and he bound by its conditions immediately but has indicated he will accept a temporary permit to operate on S. Detroit and E. Main Sts., until January 1, when the franchise question could be taken up.

No bus service is now available. Teachers, children, matrons and visitors at the O. S. and S. O.

BREWSTER BATTLES FOR GOVERNORSHIP IN MAINE'S PRIMARY

PORTLAND, Me., June 21.—With no U. S. Senators to be nominated, and only one Congressional fight in prospect, interest in today's state primaries centered upon the battle for the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

Gov. Ralph O. Brewster of this city, seeking a second term, is opposed by Arthur L. Thayer, of Bangor, former industrial accident insurance commissioner.

The lone Congressional contest is in the fourth district, where Ira L. Hersey of Houlton, the incumbent, is opposed by Benjamin W. Blanchard of Bangor, for the Republican nomination.

Without contest, Republicans will nominate for Congress, Carroll L. Beedy in the first district, Wallace H. White in the second and John E. Nelson in the third.

Democratic candidates for Congress, all unopposed, are Richard E. Hersom of Lebanon in the first district, Charles M. Starbird of Auburn in the second, Edward Chase of Baring in the third, and Frank A. Peabody of Houlton in the fourth.

In the Republican gubernatorial contest the principal issue concerns the proposed amendment to the state constitution, prohibiting appropriation of public money for private institutions.

This resolution was adopted by the last legislature and will be passed upon by the voters at the September election. It was sponsored by Governor Brewster and has his support. Thayer's platform has as its basis opposition to this proposition.

The Democratic nominee for Governor, Ernest L. McLean, of Augusta, is unopposed.

Named to Serve As Rail Arbiters

President Coolidge has named Ex-Governor Edwin P. Morrow (top) of Kentucky, Samuel E. Winslow (center) a former Massachusetts Congressman, and G. Wallace Hanger (below) of Washington as members of the new Rail Dispute Board which will serve to settle railroad problems, labor and otherwise.

Home and residents in the East End are now forced to resort to taxis or walk but the commission is doing everything within its power to obtain bus service as soon as possible, it is announced.

When they found that their reel love had become the genuine thing during the filming of "The Volga Boatman" William Boyd and Elinor Fair eloped to Santa Ana and Hollywood added their names to its rapidly growing list of new wives.

CAPITALISM GAINS GROUND IN RUSSIA REPORT INDICATES

NEW YORK, June 21.—In an exhaustive report on trade conditions in Russia, made public today, James G. McDonald, chairman of the Foreign Policy Association, expressed the belief that business in that country is tending to swing back to the capitalistic system which existed prior to the Revolution of 1917.

American business men have been attempting to benefit from a portion of the Russian foreign trade and it was for this group that the Foreign Policy Association gathered statistics for the report.

In a number of instances it has been impossible to ally economic realities and Marxian theories, the report said, adding that despite attempts of the state to destroy private capitalism in 1925 private enterprise is now flourishing and enjoying practically a free hand. This contention was backed by statistics purporting to show nearly fifty per cent of retail business today in the hands of private dealers.

Regardless of the changes that have come about in internal business, foreign trade still remains an almost complete government monopoly, the report continued. Russia is essentially an agricultural country hence its prosperity can almost be determined by the size of the agricultural yield, it was pointed out. The main crops still remain about twenty-one percent below the 1909-1913 average. Industrial production last November amounted to seventy-one percent of the 1913 figure.

The crops in 1925 were exceptionally satisfactory but the surplus available for exportation was much less than hoped for, according to the report, because the peasants unable to buy goods at what they considered fair prices withheld as much of their grain as possible from the market.

In his introduction to the report McDonald said:

"The most remarkable feature of present-day Russia is that men who a few years ago, were busy destroying the capitalist system are at present using capitalistic methods to reconstruct and develop the agriculture, the industry and trade of the country. In these efforts, the Soviet authorities, frequently scrapping their communist theories when these have clashed too harshly with economic realities, have made vast concessions to capitalistic standards.

"Intermittently the doctrinaires have tried to return to the application of the more orthodox socialist principles, but the general tendency has been a steady swing toward 'capitalistic heresies.' For example, in spite of all attempts in 1925 to break the back of private capital private enterprise has again been granted a freer hand.

"Russian foreign trade, however, has been since the revolution and remains today a government monopoly. This centralized control is now, however, somewhat less rigid than in the beginning, due to the modifications introduced by the new economic policy particularly in 1925.

"The growth and security of Russia's foreign trade depends on the rapidity of her economic recovery. This in turn depends largely on the extent to which long term foreign credits are made available. This is but another way of saying that Russia must make still further concessions to capitalism.

"It is commonplace to emphasize the importance of the recovery of Russia as a factor in the recovery of Germany and all Europe. Though the United States' foreign trade with Russia directly may never reach high percentages, Russia's return to normal would so stimulate European trade as to affect favorable American exports. Crippled Russia gives one more striking illustration of the world-wide interdependence of the modern industrial organization.

BEACH CENSORSHIP IN GREAT BRITAIN HALTS FLESH SUITS

BRIGHTON, Eng., June 21.—Reports that American girls are coming over this summer with "flesh colored" bathing suits have greatly disturbed the Town Councillors who are responsible for the decorum on Brighton's famous beaches.

These new dresses, according to report, have a startling effect of nudity only partially relieved by a flower-embroidered cape. They are made of snug-fitting stockingette. As a matter of fact, precisely this type of bathing dress is now being made in England but only for export to Ostend and other places.

"We can only repeat what we have said before," said an official of the Town Council, "that pretty visitors are more than welcome but they must respect the by-laws of Brighton and wear bathing dresses of contrasting color. They need not wear stockings and we don't mind the close-fitting one piece suit but we draw the line at anything which suggests that Mademoiselle is entering the water with nothing on."

BLACKPOOL, Eng., June 21.—When the first "flesh colored" bathing dress made its appearance here this season the authorities promptly intervened and compelled the wearer to retire to her quarters and change into something less sensational.

SUMMER TO ARRIVE ON MONDAY NIGHT

WASHINGTON, June 21.—Summer comes tonight.

The United States and other parts of the temperate zone of the northern hemisphere are entering the "summer solstice" at 11:30 p. m., eastern standard time.

The deviation of the whirling earth on its orbit around the sun has brought the days to their maximum length, daylight lasting for fifteen hours and six minutes in this section of the country from June 18 to 25.

Heat from the sun is greatest now, as the days are longer and the temperate regions receive the sun's rays more directly. But the actual maximum temperature of the year on the earth's surface does not come for six weeks or two months, when the nights, gradually increasing in length, allow a greater radiation of the heat received during the daytime than allowed by the present short nights.

LONG-FRY NUPTIALS

AT JAMESTOWN SATURDAY
Every detail handsomely appointed, the marriage of Miss Kathryn Long, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Long, Jamestown, to Mr. R. Stewart Fry, Delaware, O., was solemnized at the Long home, Saturday morning at 9:45 o'clock.

Fifty guests, relatives and friends of the couple were in attendance. The reception rooms were decked with baskets of pink roses and delphinium, combined with ferns and palms. Mrs. Long, the bride's mother, received the guests in a gown of poudre blue georgette.

An improvised altar was arranged at the mantle in the living room where the vows were taken. Marking the opening of the service, Miss Mary Jenkins gave a program of nuptial music from Mendelssohn, McDowell and Nevin, and Mrs. Ralph Ferguson sang "O Promise Me," and "At Dawning" by Cadman. Miss Jenkins wore a frock of yellow crepe de chine and Mrs. Ferguson's gown was of blue georgette, heavily beaded. Members of the bridal party were all close friends of the bride.

The bridal procession was led by the bride's two maids, Miss Elouise Farquhar and Miss Catherine Shickley. Miss Farquhar wore orchid georgette and Miss Shickley's frock was of green georgette. Both wore black slippers and carried arm bouquets of pink roses and delphinium.

Miss Ruth Turnbull, maid of honor, wore a gown of bois de rose and carried a bouquet similar to the bride's maids.

The bride entered with her father, who gave her in marriage. Her gown was simply fashioned of white taffeta, with long bodice and full short skirt. Her veil of tulle was caught with orange blossoms and fell to the hem of her gown. She carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and valley lilies.

The bridal party came down the staircase and was joined at the altar by the bridegroom and his best man, Mr. B. Holden Swiger, Delaware. Simultaneous with their entrance were two ushers, Messrs. Albert Clark, Bellaire, and J. Herbert Crist, Delaware, entered on the opposite side of the room. The officiating minister, the Rev. Mr. Vesey of the Jamestown Methodist Church, met the procession at the altar. The single ring ceremony was performed.

Breakfast was served immediately following the service. Guests were served seated about the room, pink and white appointments being used in both courtesies.

Mr. and Mrs. Fry left Saturday morning on an Eastern trip. Mrs. Fry's traveling outfit consisted of a frock of dark blue, a coat of blue taffeta trimmed in monkey fur with a rose hat.

The couple will reside in Delaware, where Mr. Fry is in the retail coal business. His father, Mr. James L. Fry, Delaware, is interested in coal mines. The bridegroom is a graduate of Ohio Wesleyan University with the class of 1924 and is a member of Sigma Chi fraternity.

Mrs. Fry attended Ohio Wesleyan two years and taught in the Cedarville grade schools two years.

Guests from a distance in attendance at the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. Edward Crockett, Columbus, Mr. and Mrs. B. Holden Swiger, Delaware and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Loyd and daughter, Eleanor, Utica, O.

BEAVERCREEK ALUMNI BANQUET FRIDAY EVENING

Plans for a community center building in Beaver Creek Twp., were given impetus at the banquet of the Beaver Creek High School Alumni Association, Friday evening in the Alpha K. of P. Hall.

Pleas for such a structure were made in talks of Attorney W. L. Miller and Mrs. Bertha Trebbin Flynn, both of this city. Acting on a motion of Attorney Charles Snyder, Dayton, Mr. Lewis Stewart, president of the alumni association, appointed a committee of five persons to confer with the township board of education to see what plans could be made along that line. The matter may be taken before the people at the Fall election, it is said.

About 200 people attended the banquet. Mrs. Louise Harbise Hagebach was toastmaster. The class of 1926 was welcomed into the association by Mr. Earl McClellan and Miss Miriam Jones responded for the class.

New officers of the coming year are: president, Mr. William McClellan; vice president, Mr. Carl Merrick; secretary, Mrs. Edna Graham, and treasurer, Miss Thelma Barth.

The school orchestra, under the direction of Prof. W. R. Sayres, furnished music. There were also numbers by a male quartet and solos.

CONSERVATIVE TODAY RADICAL OF YESTERDAY GRADUATES TOLD

"There was a time when the requisite of success was conventional honesty and moral code, the reward of the self-interested man was legitimate—but today we must judge a man's success by his service to the community," said Dr. Francis J. McConnell, bishop of the Pittsburgh area, Methodist Episcopal Church, addressing forty-three graduates at the Antioch College, baccalaureate vesper service Sunday night.

"Forget immediate consideration in favor of the eventual as judged by time."

"The question of today is 'What becomes of the youth who goes to school?'"

"Nine-tenths of the time the answer is he lives a conventional conservative life, dies a worthy respected citizen."

"That is no reason why we should not make way for the tenth man—a so-called radical. Today's conservative is yesterday's radical. We are not all called to prophetic leadership, but the prophet must have his chance."

"There is a conventional morality which we all know, but there is yet a higher morality, that challenges and inquires, calling out the highest principles of all time."

"Sad is the community that has none of these people, unfortunate as his lot is apt to be today—for he is the man who will in one generation, become a demigod of conservatism."

"Make your decision from the universal principle, not the trifling, petty one."

"Young people, my prayer for you tonight is this—that you be given the power to see the principles in events hidden from the conventional eye, overlook details and see the background of principle."

"Judge from the standard of time as eternal—not from a detail of time."

"Take the cases of life, out of the lower cases of conventional justice and usage, and judge them under the higher principles, not the principle of detail, but the principle of time eternal."

"As educated and right-minded people, it is our duty to take our decisions—the decisions we make ourselves, to the highest principle we know."

"Essential justice is based on humanitarianism, rather than technicalism. When we realize we are right, but are actually doing harm by continuing to fight for our principle, we must be guided by a greater principle which says 'Believe in your own truths, but do not injure the welfare of the majority group by fighting for them.'"

"The greatest duty of our far-seeing, thinking people of today is, to devise better means of living together for the peoples of the world. China is the only nation that has been able to accomplish this up to now—and that is because she has evolved a higher principle for every case of human maladjustment."

"If our western races were more educated to higher principles, the common social problems would disappear under the understanding which comes with greater knowledge. Conflict of the individual with the group would cease."

"Leaders of all sides in discussions today are coming to the realization of this great truth, and believe we must go beyond technical problems to the welfare of the group and the individual. Service to the community must come to the front."

Dean Philip Nash was in charge of the service and called upon Dr. Lincoln R. Gibbs, who introduced the speaker.

The graduating class of forty-three comprising students from seventeen states and one foreign country, made its appearance in caps and gowns, an innovation at Antioch.

In closing the meeting Dean Nash declared, "Bishop McConnell has summed up the spirit of Antioch in a way which I hope you students have learned before this. If you have not I am sorry, for we have failed. We want you students to go out, able to take up the social and personal problems of today and judge them by the underlying laws and principles of the universe."

Music for the service was furnished by Stewart Lyman, violinist accompanied by piano. The meeting, held on the college campus, closed with the singing of "Faith of Our Fathers" by the congregation.

TRUE TO LIFE AT LAST

THERE is much to be said for the latest effort of the motion picture magnates to bring realism to the screen. We have always suspected that some of our pictures of so-called fashionable life were not all they should be; but now that a full license butler with years of experience in the best English mansion has been hired to supervise the training of motion picture butlers, there is no longer any need for suspicion.

We shall now know the truth about how lords and ladies and princes and dukes behave; what they do with their napkins; how they hold their teacups, and whether they pick up silverware inadvertently dropped. There is no detail and phase of fashionable social life which this high-grade butler does not know.

This new moving picture butler-trainer, for instance, has already divulged some secrets which ought to make it easy for us to tell whether this or that screen butler is correct in every detail. Butlers, we are told, should never wear side-whiskers, better known as "mutton chops"; they should never wink at parlor maids; they should never appear in full dress at nine in the morning. And, above all, we should never represent a butler with a feather duster in his hand. Butlers never do the dusting.

Then there is the matter of who opens the door to guests. From our ordinary, unsupervised moving pictures we have learned that butlers sometimes do this. But now that Charles Green, butler de luxe among the nobility, is going to train them, our moving picture butlers henceforth will refrain from doing anything so menial as opening a door to guests. That little job will be done from now on only by footmen, unless otherwise engaged.

These things are not trivial matters at all. It is always gratifying to be able to tell the same article from the real thing—even in the case of moving picture butlers. But, above all, let us have truth, even on the screen.

THE SUMMER SCHOOL

AS public schools and institutions of higher education close their doors each year, the summer schools prepare to open to an attendance more interested and more interesting than before. There will be the usual number of students who want to "catch up" in a race in which they have been dragged back by illness, inappreciation, or other cause. There will be the usual number of ambitious youngsters who are anxious to "get ahead."

No other profession requires such constant application and continued study for success as does teaching. The lawyer and the physician reputedly must be ever alert to new developments in those fields. But all who are familiar with public affairs know that many successful teachers customarily have devoted many weeks each summer to systematic study in the summer schools of colleges and universities.

Eventually, teachers in public schools will be employed upon a 12 months' basis, and a part of that time will be spent, by prescription, in an approved school or advanced study. From the standpoint of the child, a year-round school program is equally desirable, with occasional vacations, of course, and perhaps with the provision that a part of the summer months should be devoted in part, at least, to systematized play. Prolonged vacations frequently prove demoralizing to the average normal youngster. The system of summer vacations, originally of five or six months, arose from the desirability of keeping the child at home in the summer to work on the farm. But no such necessity for the average city boy or girl exists nowadays.

New ideas move slowly, but they eventually prevail if they are sound.

The Theatre

"Chorus Girl Shoots Broker," "Chorine Elope With Millionaire," "Dancer Asks Heart Balm." Every paper you pick up contains some wild and fanciful tale of the stage. But these give only sidelights into the lives of players in Broadway's musical shows.

Only recently a girl who I heard in numerous productions during the past few years suddenly became insane. Investigation disclosed she was the sole support of an invalid mother and a younger sister. The public that watched her dance and sing had no idea of the trouble she was having as head of a family.

It is nothing unusual for a chorus girl to have dependents, says Mrs. Dorothy Bryant, secretary of the Chorus Equity Association and the tasks they undertake to earn money are as versatile as the characters they perform.

With the average salary and period of employment at $50 and thirty weeks a year respectively, the girls are compelled to do other work. June to September is the casting season and their old jobs must leave them free to search for place during this time.

During the recent craze of managers for Russians, many of the girls changed their names. The Smiths became Smithskys and the Browns, Brunetskys. Hundreds of girls go to New York from other cities, expecting to find stage employment. A surprisingly large number neither is beautiful nor equipped in any way for the chorus. Between 2,500 and 3,000 paid up members now are on the Equity's roll, which contains a total of 7,000.

PETTY FAILURES

These have spoiled the world for me.

Selfishness and spite and hate, False conceptions of the great, Shames which never ought to be, But when trifling cares assailed, All have marred my journey through.

In the crisis I have stood, Strong enough to meet the test, Sorely tried I've done my best, Given to life what strength I could, But when trifling cares assailed, Then so often I have failed.

Little things have spoiled my fame, Needless angry words I've said; Fiery moments, quickly sped, Leaving livid welts of shame; These my record had not marred Had I constantly kept guard.

'Tis in small things greatness shows, He is biggest who can bear Trifling tests of fretful care And not rage at petty blows, Biggest he, when small things dig, Who remembers to be big.

Baking Powder Biscuits: (Requested by "Mary M.") Sift together two cups of ordinary bread flour, four teaspoons of baking powder and one-third teaspoon of salt. Into this dry mixture work two tablespoons of butter, using the finger-tips, then wet with about three-fourths of a cup of cold, sweet milk. Press onto a lightly-floured bread board and pat down, to one-half inch in thickness; cut with a biscuit cutter, and place the little discs on a well greased pan with the edges touching. Bake fifteen minutes in a quick oven (about 400 degrees Fahrenheit, or slightly under that temperature).

Fried chicken: (Requested by "Mrs. J. B.") Have your butcher disjoint and cut up a young chicken as for fricasseeing. Roll each piece in flour, then brown in a frying pan in equal parts of lard and butter, dusting the pieces with a little salt and pepper as they fry, and turning only once (after the under side has become well browned). This frying process should take about twenty minutes. When completed, place the chicken pieces in a steamer (I use one of the three-section circular steamers, but any kind will do), dot the browned pieces with a little extra butter, and let steam over rapidly boiling water for one hour before serving. Into the frying pan in which the chicken-pieces were browned, put two or three cups of hot milk; cook over mild heat for several minutes, then thicken with enough flour-and-water paste to make of the rich consistency of ordinary gravies. Season to suit individual taste with salt and pepper, and turn the hot gravy over the fried and steamed chicken pieces on a hot meat platter.

Quick Nut Bread: Mix together three cups of wholewheat flour, one-half cup of ordinary bread flour, three-quarters of a teaspoon of salt, three and one-half teaspoons of baking powder, and one tablespoon of sugar. Add one cupful of chopped nut meats (any desired kind, or hickory and English walnuts mixed). Into this dry mixture stir two and one-half cups of cold, sweet milk. Beat vigorously, then scrape the batter and bake forty-five to fifty minutes in a moderate oven (350 to 400 degrees Fahrenheit). Tomorrow—Answers to Inquiries

Today's Talk

STRANGERS

Most of the people we meet from day to day, especially in the larger cities, or if we travel a great deal, are strangers.

They dress much the same as we do, they eat at the same tables, they stay at the same hotels, ride in automobiles much the same as we do, read the same books, and in general do about the same as we do—excepting when we choose to do something just a little out of the ordinary.

And yet, our journey through life is beset with strangers. You, I—all of us—are strangers to somebody. And much of the time we are strangers to ourselves. We are strangers to the bird or beast which we fail to note. We are strangers to the beautiful flower that bloomed for us but which we didn't note until we had trampled it underfoot.

We are strangers to our would-be friends. I know a man who is worth millions. I once visited his home and he showed me his magnificent library—which someone else had bought for him. To him all those beautifully bound books were strangers, as alien as the ices of the North Pole.

Happiness is within the reach of all and yet great crowds of strangers gather about it, not knowing that their choicest lot in life is just within their grasp.

Art is near, science is near, literature is near, beauty is near, love is near. Opportunity for great service is always near.

All too often the stranger wants to be your friend. And so do the riches of life await your reach.

Modish Mitzi

JUST NOTHING IN THE PAPER AT ALL

By Jay V. Jay

"But what perfectly fascinating styles!" Mitzi thinks to herself. This spiral trimming is so new and is carried even into the lines on which a dress is cut. Now, the dress just has spiral trimming, but the coat has actual spiral capes. Who thinks of all the new things!

This hat is a lovely thing—a combination of milan straw and velvet—so unusual for midsummer! It seems to be years, too, since Mitzi has had a hat trimmed with flowers, and this wide, drooping shape is the most becoming thing ever invented by anyone any time. Perhaps—

No, probably Dad would be annoyed if she asked him for a pencil to note down the name of the shop. Besides he's turned the page. Here's another dress with spiral trimming. One of the bloused dresses, too. After all, clothes bloused at the waistline are usually becoming.

Just then Dad explodes. "Nothing in this paper but ads," he sputters. "No news that can be found with a microscope!" "Darling," says Mitzi soothingly, "let me find you the financial section. You're going to need the best advice you can get!"

McPherson Outpitches Brother; Reserves Win 7-3

HURLER ALSO LEADS OFFENSE KNOCKING IN FIVE LOCAL RUNS

All Of Which Helps Brockmanites Break Losing Streak

The hitting and pitching of Arthur McPherson enabled the Xenia Reserves to break their losing streak with a 7 to 3 victory over the Dayton Racers Sunday afternoon at Washington Park.

Brother defeated brother when Arthur won a slab duel from Edward McPherson, Racer's hurler.

The Reserve pitcher was in his best form and the eight hits garnered by the visitors were kept well scattered.

McPherson also led the Reserve attack. His single and pair of doubles knocked in five of the seven runs made by Manager Brockman's nine.

Arthur's brother had three bad innings, the first, fifth and sixth, when the locals scored all seven tallies. He granted eleven hits and fanned the same number of batters.

Starting the contest with a rejuvenated lineup, the Reserves lost no time in acquiring for McPherson a safe lead. Singles by Conley, Cyphers and McPherson sent a pair of runs across in the first.

McPherson was pitching well and blanked the Racers for five innings although allowing five safeties. In the fifth the Reserves increased their lead to five by tallying three times. Allen opened with a single to left, Conley beat out a hit to second and Swartz walked, filling the bases.

Cyphers whiffed but McPherson came through with a towering double to center which cleared the bases.

The Racers got two of these back in the first of the sixth. With Blackie on base, Swanson connected for a home run.

Fearful lest their lead be wiped out, the locals pushed across two more runs in the last of the sixth. Ramsey was safe on Brumbaugh's wild throw. Brumbaugh fanned but Allen inserted a single to center.

Following singles by Conley and Swartz sent two runs across.

Racers scored their final run in the eighth on Blackie's safe hit to left, a walk to Swanson, infielders and Lang's single to right.

Randall's accurate return to third and a relay to the plate cut off Swanson trying to score, and prevented another run.

Reserves were represented by a number of new players Sunday. Allen, Swartz, Pimmie and Brannigan all wore Reserve uniforms for the first time. They were obtained from Springfield and Dayton. The score:

"Not Possible To Classify"
By Mack Sauer
John Shirk of New Jasper was in town Saturday, and while here asked to have that radio story reprinted. So with your kind approval. My wife asked me to copy the radio menu one morning. I did my best. But I got two stations at once. One station was broadcasting morning physical exercises the other the menu. Here's what I got for the menu:
Hands on hips. Place one cup of flour one shoulder. Raise knee, depress toes and wash thoroughly in one-half cup of milk.
In four counts raise and lower left foot and mash two hard boiled eggs through a sieve; repeat 6 to 10 times; Inhale one-half teaspoonful of salt, one level teaspoonful of baking powder; then, breathing naturally, exhale and sit.
Attention. Jump to a squatting position, bend white of egg backward and forward in cadence of quick time. Twist sideward, right or left, as far as possible, bring fists together forcibly and beat egg slowly and briskly.
Arms forward overhead. Raise the cooked egg with the flour and in four counts make a stiff drop dough which is, stretched at the waist, thighs flexed.
Lay flat on the floor and roll in marbles size of a walnut. Hop to straddle into boiling hot salted water but do not boil at a gallop. After ten minutes remove and wipe with rough towels. Breathe naturally, dress in warm flannels and serve with fish soups.
This is S. O. S.—B. V. D.—C. O. D. signing off at 8:24 a. m.
A local telephone operator gave me something uncalled for—a wrong number. Phone your ads to 111.

REALLY!
Our furniture is overstuffed,
Our best is overpriced;
My wife just feeds me half enough,
So I am underfed.

SEAL PACKED JUG

Be a "Seal Packed Jug Farmer"

A farmer who is equipped with a Seal Packed Jug for his work in the fields might be called "Seal Packed Jug Farmer." He is a farmer who believes in having near him everything that will help keep him cool and comfortable on hot days. You can be a "Seal Packed Jug Farmer." All you have to do is to take advantage of this opportunity of getting a Seal Packed Jug. You have probably taken your drinking water to the fields in a little crockery jug, and when you came to drink that water you found it warm, instead of cool and refreshing. With a Seal Packed Jug it's different. You put cold water in it and it stays cold—for hours. You don't have to set the jug in the shade, either. Set it in the sun if you want to—the water in the jug stays cold, refreshing and stimulating as a drink of just the same. There is nothing that is as good as cold water after you have worked long in a hot field. If you are equipped with a Seal Packed Jug you can have that cold water. Don't suffer just because you have to work where it is hot. Be a "Seal Packed Jug Farmer." This jug is fine for keeping foods fresh, too. Just the thing in which to carry your lunches. Great for touring and picnicking.

Everybody In Xenia and Vicinity Can Have One Now at a Special Price—Every Housewife Should Have One—The Gazette-Republican Are Glad To Be Able To Make This Matchless Offer.

CHANGED STATE GOVERNMENT ISSUE IN MINNESOTA VOTING

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 21.—A campaign with reorganization of the state government as the dominant issue was at an end today while Minnesota voted in Republican and Farmer-Labor primary elections on candidates for governor and other state officers.

Renomination of the Republican ticket is being sought by Gov. Theodore Christianson, an editor, close to the farm, will rely for much of his support on rural Minnesota. Leach, an ex-service man, claims the backing of World War veterans. His headquarters claims particular strength in Minneapolis, of which he is mayor and the "iron range" of Northern Minnesota. The swing of the urban vote of St. Paul and Duluth is doubtful.

Tom Davis, of Minneapolis, an attorney, was the first to enter the Farmer-Labor gubernatorial race. No opposition developed until Magnus Johnson, who had been politically quiet since defeat by Thomas D. Schall in the 1925 senatorial election, became a candidate. The two have conducted an amiable campaign, free of personalities.

Johnson and Davis have been without an issue to wrangle over. Their views on state questions of the day are almost identical, both having adopted the Farmer-Labor platform lock, stock and barrel as their own. They attacked Governor Christianson's reorganization program.

Johnson has conducted an earnest campaign, encouraged by his favor among farmers. His only real issue is to Davis who has a large labor following, was in one speech in which the former senator lauded his opponent.

A lieutenant governor, secretary of state, state treasurer, auditor, attorney general, railroad and warehouse commission, clerk of the supreme court and ten congressional candidates are to be nominated by the Farmer-Labor and Republican parties also.

The Democratic party has an incomplete state ticket, headed by Alfred Jacques of Duluth, for governor, but since there are no contests, the names will not appear on the ballot. There is only one Democratic congressional fight.

Christianson and Leach have campaigned up and down the state for the last three weeks over the governor's scheme for reorganizing state departments which was approved by the 1925 legislature. The "watchdog" committee of finance and administration, whose members are appointed by the governor, drew opposition not only from Leach, but also from the Farmer-Labor party.

Pursuing an economy campaign, Christianson has been consolidating state departments, slashing salaries, and in other ways reducing the number of political plums. The inevitable protest from patronage seekers has followed. But the real issue is the "watchdog" committee, composed of Henry Rines, controller; A. J. Peterson, budget commissioner; and H. W. Austin, purchasing agent all named by the governor. Leach asserts the committee is not "responsive" to the will of the voters and would elect instead of appointing some or all of its members.

BERNARD MACFADDEN

Tapeworms are of three kinds—one derived from the cow, another from the pig, and the third from fish. They cause a ravenous appetite, malnutrition, an anemic tendency, diarrhea and some abdominal pain. The presence of the parasite can also be verified by the appearance of a segment of the worm in the stools, the length of which segment may vary from one to several inches. The tapeworm, which inhabits the small intestine, grows to a length of from six to twenty or more feet, and is the largest of all parasites that infest the human organism.

The roundworm is another common intestinal parasite. It usually infests children and is small, varying from six to twelve inches in length. In appearance it resembles an earthworm and a considerable number may be present in the body at the same time. The symptoms are nervous and restless irritation, at times becoming convulsive in nature. Unless present in large numbers these worms cause few symptoms.

The thread-worm or pinworm is from a quarter to a half an inch in length. It inhabits the colon or lower bowel, and migrates to the anus where it causes intense itching.

In the treatment of tapeworm a long fast is an essential. This fast will usually have to continue from ten to twenty days. Activity of the bowels should be promoted by the use of saline or oil laxatives or by infusion of garlic as an enema. If, however, you do not care to try a long fast, you can fast for two or three days, making a meal of macerated pumpkin seeds on the third day and the same on the fourth day. Take from four to six ounces of these seeds and drink as much water with them as you crave—in fact it would be better for you to drink a large quantity of water on the days that you use the seeds. The water can be hot or cold in accordance with the desires of the patient. Fats of all kinds should be avoided.

Every available means for adding to your vital functional vigor is, of course of value in ridding yourself of the parasite. Hot and cold sitz baths are particularly beneficial provided you recuperate with a feeling of warmth thereafter.

ENLARGED STATE PARK FACILITIES ARE CALLING MILLIONS OF VACATIONISTS

WASHINGTON, June 21.—Now that summer is upon us, millions of Americans are looking toward the state and national parks for their vacations. With the national parks all located in the west and usually difficult of access, more attention is being paid to the rapidly increasing state parks, scattered in forty-three out of the forty-eight states.

Plans for enlarging and bettering vacation facilities were considered at the sixth national conference on state parks at Hot Springs, Ark., June 14 to 16.

The tremendous increase was depicted in a statement issued by the National Geographic Society, outlining recent remarkable gains in the southern states.

Tennessee and Virginia have created Conservation Commissions with state park powers. Florida has passed a state park law, Georgia and Mississippi have created forestry departments with recreational provisions, Alabama has acquired a state park committee, Louisiana will add a state park division to its Conservation Commission.

Arkansas is acquiring a comprehensive state park system; Oklahoma is working to the same end through its forestry and game commission; and Texas, which last year reported its record of fifty-two park sites received by gift, is improving them for public recreation.

Some of the state parks rival national parks in size and scenic beauty. Adirondack Park in New York, with 1,550,000 acres owned by the State is exceeded only by Yellowstone; Custer State Park, in South Dakota, of 170,000 acres is of national park standard. Other large state parks are the Catskill, of 150,000 acres; the Alleghany, of 60,000 acres and the Palisades, Interstate Park, 45,000 acres, in New York, the Northern Forest Park, in Wisconsin, of 98,000 acres; and Itasca Lake State Park, in Minnesota, including the source of the Mississippi of 32,000 acres.

preserves allied under a central state agency, the Council of Parks, with a total of 90; Michigan has 56 state parks; Texas 52; Iowa 38; Minnesota 18; Washington 17; Pennsylvania leads in state forests, all of which serve for varied outdoor recreation, with a total of 1,131,000 acres.

Among the notable additions to the more than 500 state parks throughout the country, during the past year, are the preservation of part of the famous Indiana dunes on Lake Michigan, as an Indiana State Park; conservation of the forest surroundings of the Great Stone Face, of Hawthorne's Tale, the marvelous profile in Franconia Notch, as a New Hampshire State Forest; establishment of entirely new state park system in Missouri and Kentucky; acquisition of Tongue Mountain, between the arms of Lake George in New York, as part of the state forest preserve; and of notable caves and gorges in southeastern Ohio by the State Forestry Department.

Historic sites, which are preserved in many state parks, have been increased by such additions as Fort Macon, in North Carolina; Old French and early American forts in Alabama and memorials of frontier days in North Dakota.

LARGEST CHILDREN'S CHORUS IN WORLD HEARD AT CHICAGO

CHICAGO, June 21.—The voices of 60,000 children welled through the giant Soldiers' Field today as world's largest chorus sang the Mass of the Angels at the second general session of the Twenty-eighth International Eucharistic Congress.

Children from all of Chicago's parochial schools, garbed in acolytes and white gowns and veils, stood massed in front of Princes of the Church, bishops, priests and laymen—numbering more than 100,000 and sang the centuries old mass.

It was the crowning feature to date, of the resplendent church fete.

The setting was a masterpiece in color. High on each side of the stadium were the gleaming white pillars of memorial stadium with the western skyline showing the colossal buildings of Chicago's business district and the eastern skyline dipping into Lake Michigan.

Inside the stadium stood the churchmen. The uniformed clergymen, their costumes contrasting noticeably with the garb of the laymen, stood with bowed heads as the "child chorus" voiced the beautiful mass.

The chorus itself massed by the altar. There were children of five and six and young folks of seventeen and eighteen. The boys wore the acolytes—church altar costume—while the girls wore white dresses with white veils. Mingled in the crowd of youthful singers could be seen the occasional garb of a military school student, contrasting noticeably with the other costumes of the singers.

It will Pay You to Know the MAYTAG

IT WILL pay you to know the Maytag. Pay you in time saved—in work made easier—in clothes washed cleaner. Prove this in your own home—do a week's washing, free—at our expense and without obligation of any kind.

See how much cleaner your clothes are washed—without hand-rubbing, even of collars and cuffs, neckbands and wristbands, and every piece immaculate—spotlessly clean.

Just think! The Maytag washes the finest silks and laces as gently as by hand. Washes work-clothes—stiff with grease, and play-clothes—grimy with dirt, as clean as new, in not over 10 minutes. Washes a big tubful of ordinary clothes in 3 to 7 minutes. Washes 50 pounds of dry clothes—a whole washing—in one short hour.

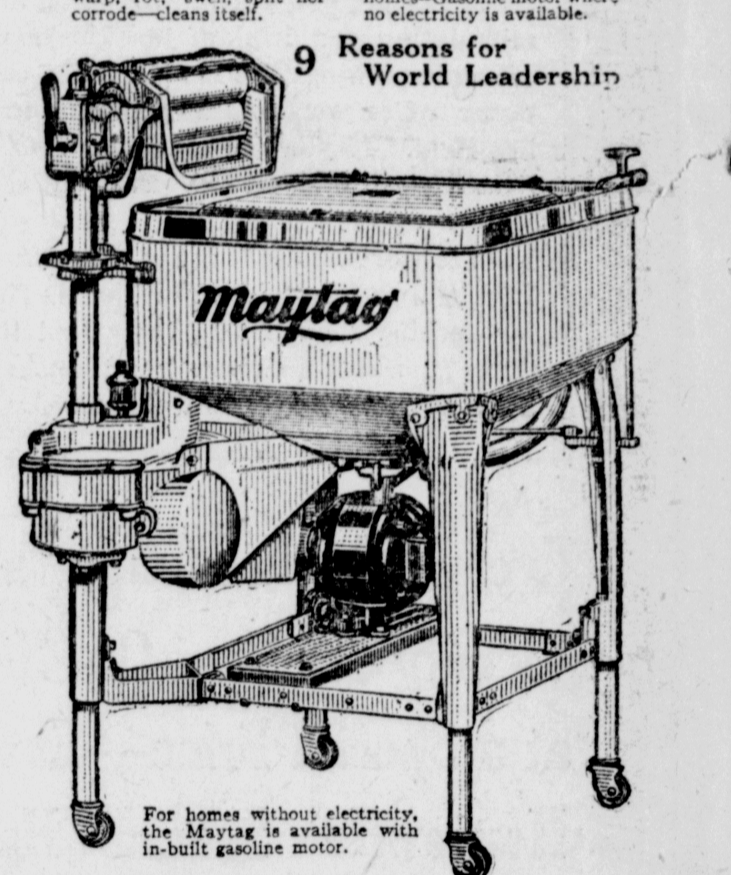

Water stays hot in the satin-smooth, self-cleaning, cast aluminum tub throughout an entire, big washing. Water is always clean because the dirt is held in the sediment trap beneath the gyrotator.

Let us furnish a Maytag for your next week's washing. Give it every washing test, examine carefully its many better features. Then—if it doesn't sell itself to you, don't keep it.

9 Outstanding Maytag Features

1. Washes faster.
2. Washes cleaner.
3. Largest hourly capacity. Tub holds 21 gallons.
4. Most compact washer made—takes floor space only 25 inches square.
5. Cast aluminum tub—can't warp, rot, swell, split nor corrode—cleans itself.
6. Easily adjusted to your height.
7. Clothes can be put in or taken out with the washer running.
8. All metal wringer. Self-adjusting. Instant tension-release.
9. Electric motor for wired homes—gasoline motor where no electricity is available.

POINCARE WILL ACCEPT CABINET MEMBERSHIP

Ex-Premier Promises Briand To Enter New Body
When Latter Succeeds Failure Of
Herriot Sunday.

By United Press
PARIS, June 21.—Ex-premier Raymond Poincare has agreed to enter a cabinet being formed by Aristide Briand. Briand again undertook the task of building a government following complete failure yesterday of Edouard Herriot's attempts to complete a ministry. His first act was to get in touch with Poincare, who had left Paris to unveil a war monument in the Meuse. "Poincare has examined with me, all problems which require attention," Briand told the United Press today. "He is still willing to collaborate in my cabinet which will include men capable of showing the country that politics must now be a secondary question. "I shall call men of various parties, but all will be strongly Republican. "The situation is difficult," he continued, "but I still believe that I can solve it, provided it is not poisoned by political considerations."

FIRE CAPTAIN ROY MENDENHALL QUILTS JOB; NAME IRELAND

Herman Fisher Made
Lieutenant—Fireman
Appointed

With two resignations submitted and accepted within one week, City Manager S. O. Hale is putting the Xenia Fire Department through the process of a thorough re-organization. Captain Roy Mendenhall, who holds the longest record in point of service of any member of the department, has tendered his written resignation to Manager Hale. Roy Ireland, regular fireman for the past four years, was named captain to fill the vacancy.

The position of lieutenant, made vacant by the promotion of William Hannigan to be fire chief, has been filled by Manager Hale by the appointment of Herman Fisher. Fisher served as a special fireman or "sleeper" for several years before he became a regular fire-fighter more than a year ago. Manager Hale also announced Monday the provisional appointment of Walter Buffington as regular member of the department. He has served as a special fireman for several years. Mendenhall's signed resignation has been in the hands of the city manager for several days but was not acted upon officially until Monday. He has been a member of the department more than eight years and was elevated to the position of captain less than two years ago. It is understood he will enter business with his father, Richard Mendenhall. Two vacancies on the department caused by the resignations of Fire Chief T. B. Claire and Captain Mendenhall have been filled temporarily by provisional appointments. Kenneth Dice was recently elevated to be a regular fireman.

Both Buffington and Dice will be required to take civil service examinations along with any other applicants before permanent appointments can be made.

TRAGEDY EPIDEMIC SWEEPS STATE OVER WEEK END IS REPORT

Auto Accidents To Blame
For Most Of Fatalities

BY THE UNITED PRESS
An epidemic of tragic deaths swept over Ohio over the week end with grade crossing crashes, automobile collisions, suicides and drownings the contributory causes.

Twenty deaths had been recorded before 8 a. m. and more than a score of injured were in hospitals, some of them expected to die.

As reports trickled in, they were compiled by the United Press with the following results:

CHILLICOTHE—Mrs. Harriet Ortman, 50, Chillicothe, and her daughter, Margaret, 21, were killed, and another daughter, Inez, 25, was seriously injured when their automobile was demolished by a northbound Norfolk and Western Train, at Delano, near here.

COLUMBUS—Louis Pearson and his son, Richard C. Pearson, 22, were killed when their automobile side swiped another vehicle. The occupants of the second vehicle escaped injury.

DELPHOS—Miss Ethelwyn Cowgill, 31, Marion, was killed and her companion, Cecil O. Summerlot, 31, also of Marion, was seriously injured when a west bound Pennsylvania flyer struck their automobile at a grade crossing near here.

TOLEDO—Fred Shell, 42, Toledo, was killed when an automobile crashed into the rear of his standing truck. Shell stopped the truck and had alighted to inspect his headlights when the crash occurred. Charles Clements, Detroit negro, was fatally injured when his automobile overturned.

CINCINNATI—Edward E. Geiger, 21, University of Cincinnati student, was drowned in the Ohio River when his boat capsized. John Noll, 16, Cincinnati, was fatally injured when his automobile collided with a truck he was attempting to beat to a crossing. Lloyd Clore, 19, Rising Sun, Ind., was killed when his automobile collided with a truck. Roy Wallace, Lebanon, was perhaps fatally injured when he drove his automobile into a bridge abutment.

NORTH ROBINSON—Mrs. David Shumaker, 45, killed when a passenger train struck her automobile at a grade crossing near here.

FINDLAY, O.—George M. Leary, 53, Findlay grocer, was electrocuted Sunday when a rheostat fell into a bathtub while he was bathing.

YOUNGSTOWN, O.—Irving Merlinger, 41, died suddenly here while wrestling with James Gething, a playmate. As Irving succeeded in pinning James' back, the former suddenly collapsed and died before medical aid could be summoned. The exact cause of death has not been determined.

COLUMBUS, O.—Police today were attempting to trace the motorist who hurled Mrs. Mary Price, 35, from an automobile here last night, causing injuries from which she may die. Mr. Price is unconscious. No motive for the act has been learned.

CLEVELAND, O.—Frank Kubbs, 40, Cleveland car dealer, shot and killed himself at his home here during the night. Relatives said Kubbs had been depressed because his business had not been successful. He came here from Shelby.

Leo Loos, 27, railroad worker, was killed when he fell from a car. Another man was seriously injured in a similar accident. Miss Ruth Appleman, 29, Detroit, a waitress was killed when she fell down an elevator shaft in the Courtland Hotel here. A safety gate had been left open, police said.

BELLEVILLE, O.—George Samuel Armbrust, 70, St. Paris, Ohio, was fatally injured when a standing automobile, its brakes becoming loosened, rolled down a hill and struck him. Armbrust was attending a picnic at the time.

YOUNGSTOWN, O.—The body of an unidentified man who leaped from a bridge here, was recovered today.

REPORT ATTEMPT TO MURDER AMERICAN

PEKING, June 21.—An attempt to murder an American woman described as Miss Manley, was reported today from Cheng Tu in the province of Szechuen. A Chinese reported to have attempted to strangle Miss Manley. Passersby rescued the woman and the attacker was arrested.

Jails "Count"

Mrs. Esther Wiseman, of Boston, caused the arrest of "Count" A. Paul Monte, society favorite, saying that he was plain Nicholas Wiseman, her husband, and the father of a girl of five.

CONVICTED SLAYER REFUSED NEW TRIAL UPON DEATH APPEAL

Clark's Last Recourse
Is Appeal To
Governor

TOLEDO, O., June 21.—The sixth district court of appeals, in a decision announced today, denied a new trial to William Clark, Fremont youth condemned to die in the electric chair for the murder of Ralph A. Hoffman, a farmer.

The court heard Clark's appeal Friday and Saturday, the decision being withheld until court convened this morning. Clark is sentenced to die on either the morning or afternoon of July 8. His only recourse now, it was pointed out in an appeal to the supreme court or to Gov. Vic Donahey and the state board of clemency.

Clark's trial was one of the most sensational in the annals of Sandusky County. Hoffman and his wife were slain when they returned home suddenly and found young Clark looting their home. Clark was not tried for the death of Mrs. Hoffman.

The court sustained the youth's conviction throughout. No formal written opinion was handed down.

CHARLESTON DANCER ROCKS ROWBOAT AND SIX YOUNGSTERS ARE DROWNED

SAULT STE MARIE, Mich., June 21.—The tragic death of a young dancer of the Charleston, on the floor of a fragile rowboat in St. Mary's River late yesterday, plunged his home and those of five companions into mourning today.

The dancer was the junior Charlestown champion of Sault Ste. Marie.

His five companions, who met death when the craft capsized from his unsteady footings, were:

Peggy McIntyre, 16; her sister, Annie McIntyre, 14; Emily Carey, 14; John Parsons, 13, and Clement Corrier, 13.

Isaac Jenicover, 15 years old, seventh member of the party, alone was saved when he managed to cling to the bottom of the overturned boat. He told of the strange tragedy.

None of the bodies had been recovered early today.

The crackling of burning wood aroused Miss Morley at an early hour. Hastening from her boudoir, she awakened her father and as flames licked at the stairway, aided in arousing and leading other members of the household to safety.

The blaze originated near a fireplace in the living room. Morley's extensive law library was destroyed. Total damage was estimated at $50,000.

WILLIAMSON, W. Va., June 21.—Three men were slain in a gun battle here over the week-end, and police are without any one to arrest. All the principals were killed.

Enls Roberts, 60, was shot to death by Mel Sanson, 40, in a dispute over a woman, according to police. Roberts' son-in-law, George Hardin, hunted down Sanson and they killed each other in the ensuing gun fight.

QUESTION MILLIONAIRE ABOUT FAILURE TO REPORT DONATION

WASHINGTON, June 21.—Albert M. Greenfield, Philadelphia millionaire, was questioned by the senate primary investigating committee today about his failure to reveal that he had given $125,000 to the Vore campaign fund when he testified previously.

Chairman Reed, read to Greenfield his testimony of June 9 when the witness had said his sole connection with the campaign was the solicitation of $50,000 for the Vore fund.

"Now it has since developed that you had more to do with the campaign," said Reed. "Tell us all you had to do with it."

"I had very little else to do with it," said Greenfield. "I knew at that time that the contribution I made would later become known. I answered questions and didn't volunteer any information. The newspaper men have made it appear there was some discrepancy in my statement."

"Well, the record speaks for itself," returned Reed.

Greenfield said he was chairman of the Vore businessmen's committee.

Wayne B. Wheeler, legislative agent of the Anti-Saloon League, who has been waiting for several days to resume testimony was notified he could remain at his office across the street until called.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 21.—Political leaders and Women's Christian Temperance workers were summoned today before senate's special committee, sitting as a grand jury investigating the $3,000,000 Pennsylvania primary.

Ten new witnesses were called as Chairman James A. Reed attempted to go to the bottom of two new tales which have developed out of the testimony charging corruption, excessive expenditures, forgery, shady dealings and fraud.

First Reed intends to ascertain why the gubernatorial vote was so long being counted.

Next Reed wishes to ascertain where the $250,000 fund went which was raised by the Pennsylvania W. C. T. U. to aid state prohibition. He has called Mrs. Maude T. Seymour, vice president-at-large.

It has been charged the money was used to further the campaign of Gifford Pinchot in the Vore-Pepper-Pinchot Senatorial race.

MESSAGE FROM POPE READ TO BRILLIANT CLERGY GATHERING

Children's Choir Of 62,
000 Voices Feature
of Monday

CHICAGO, June 21.—Rain clouds hung low in the sky today, as great throngs moved toward this stadium to witness an ancient church bring forth gorgeous pomp and splendid ceremonies to assist its little children in honoring their Blessed Eucharist.

Children's day of the Eucharistic Congress, with a chorus of 62,000 voices to be raised in the mass of the angels, attracted the reverent congregation of untold numbers gathered in Chicago to pay tribute to Jesus Christ as God.

A high wind swept across the stadium from Lake Michigan, washing waves against the shore near the stadium as the first pilgrims began to gather at 3 a. m., saved hours before the ceremonies were scheduled to start.

Many women were included among the early arrivals. Some carried knitting and sewing bags, prepared to pass the time until the start of the services.

Rain fell intermittently as the colorful crowd moved down the wide expanse of Michigan Boulevard and across the narrow viaducts spanning the Illinois Central Railroad tracks.

Nuns in black and white robes and priests in their monastic costumes or in civilian garb began arriving shortly after daylight.

The huge, golden altar, modeled after the one in St. Paul's without the walls in Rome, was outlined against the leaden gray skies.

The weather was in contrast to the ideal June day, which marked the opening of the ceremonies.

All the Sunday ceremonies, including the installation of Cardinal Bonzano as papal legate for the congress, were held indoors with the exception of an ecclesiastical procession of four blocks to Holy Name Cathedral for the services.

While only 2,000 could crowd into the cathedral, another 50,000 stood in the streets under the hot midday sun for two hours listening to the music and sermons through the loudspeaking arrangements.

The services of the congress, sounded by Cardinal Bonzano, by a message from Pope Pius XI naming him as the papal delegate, and by Cardinal Mundelein, is to extend the influence of the Eucharist by bringing still greater numbers within its influence. Speakers called for a re-uniting of the "separated brethren," meaning the eastern Catholic churches and they urged extension of missionary work.

Sunday's services brought together the most brilliant gatherings of clergy ever seen on American soil. Priests, Monks, Monsignors, Bishops, Arch Bishops, Cardinals and the personal representative of the Pope filled the cathedral shortly after noon after a procession through the kneeling thousands.

Today's services in the stadium gave the general public its first opportunity to witness the rich pageantry of the church. More than 100,000 persons were accommodated in the vast amphitheater. An overflow crowd nearly twice this size was forced to remain outside the gates near the Field Museum and listened to the services through amplifiers.

Buses discharged the children who will sing the mass of the Angels, at the entrance to Grant Park at intervals of one minute. The girls, dressed in white, with uniform capes and the boys with white blouses, took their places in the center of the stadium with the youngest in the front seats.

They marched across the wide Pascoe leading to the stadium, escorted by their teaching sisters.

As soon as the children were seated, oranges were distributed to keep them contented and to clear their throats for the singing.

They swung into the stadium to the martial music of three bands, which kept up a constant play of martial music as the children paraded down the aisles to their places.

Visiting nuns took their seats on the side of the altar, presenting a picture of white with a black ground of black, in the seats rising forty feet high.

The weather had cleared and the silver and gold flags, with the stars and stripes fluttered out before the strong wind.

The children moved toward the front of the stadium in three columns, four abreast and gave the appearance of three long white ribbons, extending out from the front of the altar to the rear gate of the stadium, and for a mile down the winding boulevards to where they were leaving their buses.

A great cheer arose from the children as Prof. Otto Singenberg, who has been training them for their singing, took his place in the rostrum about 200 feet in front of the altar.

CONFISCATION OF MONARCHY'S TREASURE IN GERMANY FAILS

Opposition To Return Of Riches Is Still Apparent
However—Outbreaks Feared From
Opponents.

BERLIN, June 21.—Even though the failure of the anti-monarchist expropriation bill frustrates the confiscation of the former dynasty's treasure, estimated at half a billion dollars, it is by no means a foregone conclusion that these immense riches will be returned intact to their previous owners.

The government is still confronted by a powerful opposition which could not only be disregarded at the risk of provoking serious political consequences and perhaps even violent outbreaks.

Following Sunday's referendum in which the move to confiscate the treasure was defeated, the government today announced it would immediately pass a compromise bill through the Reichstag, whereby the state retains part of this valuable property while the remainder is returned to the overthrown monarchs and their families.

One of the most significant features of the referendum is that 15,000,000 German citizens have reaffirmed their opposition to the old regime by voting for expropriation of the estates of their former rulers.

The final vote in the referendum yesterday stood:
For expropriation, 14,889,000.
Against, 540,000.

These attacks were renewed as a result of the action of Rep. La Guardia, in present socialist, New York, in mixing malt tonic and near beer to make a drinkable Muenchener-like beer publicly in the house office building Saturday.

Drys insist the tonic permits be abrogated.

The treasury stood pat, insisting on the strength of a dictum from its chemists, that the malt tonic is purely a tonic and that the La Guardia beer making formula will not come into general use.

THREE DEAD AFTER FIGHT OVER WOMAN

WILLIAMSON, W. Va., June 21.—Three men were slain in a gun battle here over the week-end, and police are without any one to arrest. All the principals were killed.

Enls Roberts, 60, was shot to death by Mel Sanson, 40, in a dispute over a woman, according to police. Roberts' son-in-law, George Hardin, hunted down Sanson and they killed each other in the ensuing gun fight.

BUS SERVICE MAY BE RESTORED THROUGH TEMPORARY PERMIT

Bus service to the east corporation line of the city and to the O. S. and S. O. Home over the route formerly covered by the city street car, may again be available soon, in the opinion of city officials.

Service is expected to be supplied by O. E. Sturgeon, Xenia bus operator.

In an effort to solve once, and for all the problem of transportation for former patrons of the city street car, City Commission went on record in a motion at its last meeting as favoring the granting of a bus franchise to Sturgeon.

Commissioners also instructed City Solicitor J. A. Finney and City Manager S. O. Hale to draft a franchise ordinance with the provision the service is to be furnished according to Sturgeon's written application, subject to any future modifications that are thought needed to meet conditions.

Sturgeon is unwilling to accept a long franchise and be bound by its conditions immediately but has indicated he will accept a temporary permit to operate on S. Detroit and E. Main Sts., until January 1, when the franchise question could be taken up.

No bus service is now available. Teachers, children, matrons and visitors at the O. S. and S. O.

BREWSTER BATTLES FOR GOVERNORSHIP IN MAINE'S PRIMARY

PORTLAND, Me., June 21.—With no U. S. Senators to be nominated, and only one Congressional fight in prospect, interest in today's state primaries centered upon the battle for the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

Gov. Ralph O. Brewster of this city, seeking a second term, is opposed by Arthur L. Thayer, of Bangor, former industrial accident insurance commissioner.

The local Congressional contest is in the fourth district, where Ira L. Hersey of Houlton, the incumbent, is opposed by Benjamin W. Blanchard of Bangor, for the Republican nomination.

Without contest, Republicans will nominate for Congress, Carroll L. Beedy in the first district, Wallace H. White in the second and John E. Nelson in the third.

Democratic candidates for Congress, all unopposed, are Richard E. Herson of Lebanon in the first district, Charles M. Starbird of Auburn in the second, Edward Chase of Baring in the third, and Frank A. Peabody of Houlton in the fourth.

In the Republican gubernatorial contest the principal issue concerns the proposed amendment to the state constitution, prohibiting appropriation of public money for private institutions.

This resolution was adopted by the last legislature and will be passed upon by the voters at the September election. It was sponsored by Governor Brewster and has his support. Thayer's platform has as its basis opposition to this proposition.

The Democratic nominee for Governor, Ernest L. McLean, of Augusta, is unopposed.

Named to Serve As Rail Arbiters

President Coolidge has named Ex-Governor Edwin P. Morrow (top) of Kentucky, Samuel E. Winslow (center) a former Massachusetts Congressman, and G. Wallace Hanger (below) of Washington as members of the new Rail Dispute Board which will serve to settle railroad problems, labor and otherwise.

BEACH CENSORSHIP IN GREAT BRITAIN HALTS FLESH SUITS

BRIGHTON, Eng., June 21.—Reports that American girls are coming over this summer with "flesh colored" bathing suits have greatly disturbed the Town Councilors who are responsible for the decorum on Brighton's famous beaches.

These new dresses, according to report, have a startling effect of audacity only partially relieved by a flower-embroidered cape. They are made of snug-fitting stockingette. As a matter of fact, precisely this type of bathing dress is now being made in England but only for export to Ostend and other places.

"We can only repeat what we have said before," said an official of the Town Council, "that pretty visitors are more than welcome but they must respect the by-laws of Brighton and wear bathing dresses of contrasting color. They need not wear stockings and we don't mind the close-fitting one piece suit but we draw the line at anything which suggests that Mademoiselle is entering the water with nothing on."

BLACKPOOL, Eng., June 21.—When the first "flesh colored" bathing dress made its appearance here this season the authorities promptly intervened and compelled the wearer to retire to her quarters and change into something less sensational.

SUMMER TO ARRIVE ON MONDAY NIGHT

WASHINGTON, June 21.—Summer comes tonight.

The United States and other parts of the temperate zone of the northern hemisphere are entering the "summer solstice" at 11:30 p. m., eastern standard time.

The deviation of the whirling earth on its orbit around the sun has brought the days to their maximum length, daylight lasting for fifteen hours and six minutes in this section of the country from June 18 to 25.

Heat from the sun is greatest now, as the days are longer and the temperate regions receive the sun's rays more directly. But the actual maximum temperature of the year on the earth's surface does not come for six weeks or two months, when the nights, gradually increasing in length, allow a greater radiation of the heat received during the daytime than allowed by the present short nights.

LONG-FRY NUPTIALS AT JAMESTOWN SATURDAY

Every detail handsomely appointed, the marriage of Miss Kathryn Long, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Long, Jamestown to Mr. R. Stewart Fry, Delaware, O., was solemnized at the Long home, Saturday morning at 9:45 o'clock.

Fifty guests, relatives and friends of the couple were in attendance. The reception rooms were decked with baskets of pink roses and delphinium, combined with ferns and palms. Mrs. Long, the bride's mother, received the guests in a gown of poudre blue georgette.

An improvised altar was arranged at the mantle in the living room where the vows were taken. Marking the opening of the service, Miss Mary Jenkins gave a program of nuptial music from Mendelssohn, McDowell and Nevin, and Mrs. Ralph Ferguson sang "O Promise Me," and "At Dawning" by Cadman. Miss Jenkins wore a frock of yellow crepe de chine and Mrs. Ferguson's gown was of blue georgette, heavily beaded. Members of the bridal party were all close friends of the bride.

The bridal procession was led by the bride's two maids, Miss Elouise Farquhar and Miss Catherine Sherry. Miss Farquhar wore a child georgette and Miss Sherry's frock was of green georgette. Both wore black slippers and carried arm bouquets of pink roses and delphinium.

Miss Ruth Turnbull, maid of honor, wore a gown of bois de rose and carried a bouquet similar to the bride's maids.

The bride entered with her father, who gave her in marriage. Her gown was simply fashioned of white tulle, with long bodice and full short skirt. Her veil, which was caught with orange blossoms and fell to the hem of her gown. She carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and valley lilies.

The bride's party came down the staircase and was joined at the altar by the bridegroom and his best man, Mr. B. Holden Swiger, Delaware. Simultaneous with their entrance the two ushers, Messrs. Albert Clarke, Bellaire and J. Herbert Crist, Delaware, entered on the opposite side of the room. The officiating minister, the Rev. W. Vesey of the Jamestown Methodist Church, met the procession at the altar. The single ring ceremony was performed.

Breakfast was served immediately following the service. Guests were served seated about the room, pink and white appointments being used in both courses.

Mr. and Mrs. Fry left Saturday morning on an Eastern trip. Mrs. Fry's traveling outfit consisted of a frock of dark blue, a coat of blue tulle, trimmed in monkey fur with a rose hat.

The couple will reside in Delaware, where Mr. Fry is in the retail coal business. His father, Mr. James L. Fry, Delaware, is interested in coal mines. The bridegroom is a graduate of Ohio Wesleyan University with the class of 1924 and is a member of Sigma Chi fraternity.

Mrs. Fry attended Ohio Wesleyan two years and taught in the Cedarville grade schools two years.

Guests from a distance in attendance at the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. Edward Crockett, Columbus, Mr. and Mrs. B. Holden Swiger, Delaware and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lloyd and daughter, Eleanor, Utica, O.

BEAVERCREEK ALUMNI BANQUET FRIDAY EVENING
Plans for a community center building in Beaver Creek Twp. were given impetus at the banquet of the Beaver Creek High School Alumni Association, Friday evening in the Alpha K. of P. Hall.

Pleas for such a structure were made in talks of Attorney W. L. Fuller and Mrs. Bertha Trebein Flynn, both of this city. Acting on a motion of Attorney Charles Snyder, Dayton, Mr. Lewis Stewart, president of the alumni association, appointed a committee of five persons to confer with the township board of education to see what plans could be made along that line. The matter may be taken before the people at the Fall election, it is said.

About 200 people attended the banquet. Mrs. Louise Harbace Hagebach was toastmaster. The class of 1926 was welcomed into the association by Mr. Earl McClellan and Miss Miriam Jones responded for the class.

New officers of the coming year are: president, Mr. William McClellan; vice president, Mr. Carl Merrick; secretary, Mrs. Edna Graham; and treasurer, Miss Thelma Barth.

The school orchestra, under the direction of Prof. W. R. Sayres, furnished music. There were also numbers by a male quartet and solos.

OFFICERS CHOSEN BY MCLELLAN Y. P. B.
McClellan Y. P. B. chose officers at the meeting entertained by the Misses Velda and Gladys Beal, last Friday evening.

Miss Ethel Wolf was chosen president; Mr. Ginn McClain, vice president; Miss Phoebe Burrell, secretary; Miss Marguerite Burrell, corresponding secretary; Mr. Harold Harner, treasurer; Miss Edna Marshall, leader.

Plans were made for a picnic at Lakeside, Dayton, July 5. The Misses Grant will be hostesses at the July meeting. After the business session, dainty refreshments were served by the Misses Beal.

CLUB MEETS TO RE-ORGANIZE FRIDAY

Miss Kathryn Cross entertained a group of girls with a covered dish supper at her home on W. Market St., Friday evening. The many delicious viands were served cafeteria style.

Later in the evening, a business session was held when the C. L. C. Club was re-organized, choosing a new name, the letters of which are, "V. J. B." Officers are: president, Miss Emma Saunders; secretary, Miss Mildred Dice; corresponding secretary, Miss Kathryn Cross.

Those who enjoyed the evening were: the Misses Mildred Cross, Margaret Calhoun, Minnie Carter, Emma Saunders, Clara Street, Ho Long, Mildred Dice, Ruth Burrell, Ethel Miller, Edith Jackson, Fern Griffith, Marguerite Loyd, Geraldine Dice, Kathryn Jones, Mrs. Ethel Shaffer, Mrs. Maynard Long, Mrs. Eleanor Fleke, Mrs. H. OFFICERS TO TAKE SPECIAL TRAINING
Major Leroy V. John and Sergeant Ernest Mangan, of Company L, 147th Infantry, Ohio National Guard, leave Tuesday for a one-week period of training at a special officers' school at Camp Perry this week.

More than eighty officers and 100 non-commissioned officers are expected to attend the school.

Every National Guard company in the state is entitled to send one officer and one non-commissioned officer to the camp.

Major John has been designated as one of the instructors in infantry drill this year along with twelve other regular army officers and five National Guard officers who attended a special training camp this summer.

The local National Guardsmen will return next Sunday.

ROGERS CONTINUES TO CLING TO LIFE
George Rogers, 26, colored, alleged to have been stabbed in the back during a disturbance at the home of Mrs. Bertha Webb, nee Hamilton, Leach St., Friday, continued to cling to a slender thread separating him from death over the weekend.

Rogers has confounded physicians who predicted he could not live and unless sudden complications set in, is now said to have at least an even chance for recovery.

In a signed statement to Prosecutor J. Carl Marshall he charged Mrs. Webb with stabbing him. Mrs. Webb and Agnew White, the latter charged with assaulting Rogers, are held in the County Jail awaiting grand jury action in their cases. Mrs. Webb is charged with cutting with intent to kill.

PHYSICIANS WILL MEET THURSDAY

CONSERVATIVE TODAY RADICAL OF YESTERDAY GRADUATES TOLD
"There was a time when the requisite of success was conventional honesty and moral code, the reward of the self-interested man was legitimate—but today we must judge a man's success by his service to the community," said Dr. Francis J. McConnell, bishop of the Pittsburgh area, Methodist Episcopal Church, addressing forty-three graduates at the Antioch College, baccalaureate vespers service Sunday night.

"Forget immediate consideration in favor of the eventual as judged by time."

"The question of today is 'What becomes of the youth who goes to school.'"

"Nine-tenths of the time the answer is he lives a conventional conservative life, dies a worthy respected citizen."

"That is no reason why we should not make way for the tenth man—a so-called radical. Today's conservative is yesterday's radical. We are not all called to prophetic leadership, but the prophet must have his chance."

"There is a conventional morality which we all know, but there is yet a higher morality, that challenges and inquires, calling out the highest principles of all time."

"Sad is the community that has none of these people, unfortunate as his lot is apt to be today—for he is the man who will in one generation, become a demigod of conservatism."

"Make your decision from the universal principle, not the trifling, petty one."

"Young people, my prayer for you tonight is this—that you be given the power to see the principles in events hidden from the conventional eye, overlook details and see the background of principle."

"Judge from the standard of time as eternal—not from a detail of time."

"Take the cases of life, out of the lower cases of conventional justice and usage, and judge them under the higher principles, not the principle of detail, but the principle of time eternal."

"As educated and right-minded people, it is our duty to take our decisions—the decisions we make ourselves, to the highest principle we know."

"Essential justice is based on humanitarianism, rather than technicalism. When we realize we are right, but are actually doing harm by continuing to fight for our principle, we must be guided by a higher principle."

BEAVERCREEK ALUMNI BANQUET FRIDAY EVENING
Plans for a community center building in Beaver Creek Twp. were given impetus at the banquet of the Beaver Creek High School Alumni Association, Friday evening in the Alpha K. of P. Hall.

Pleas for such a structure were made in talks of Attorney W. L. Fuller and Mrs. Bertha Trebein Flynn, both of this city. Acting on a motion of Attorney Charles Snyder, Dayton, Mr. Lewis Stewart, president of the alumni association, appointed a committee of five persons to confer with the township board of education to see what plans could be made along that line. The matter may be taken before the people at the Fall election, it is said.

About 200 people attended the banquet. Mrs. Louise Harbace Hagebach was toastmaster. The class of 1926 was welcomed into the association by Mr. Earl McClellan and Miss Miriam Jones responded for the class.

New officers of the coming year are: president, Mr. William McClellan; vice president, Mr. Carl Merrick; secretary, Mrs. Edna Graham; and treasurer, Miss Thelma Barth.

The school orchestra, under the direction of Prof. W. R. Sayres, furnished music. There were also numbers by a male quartet and solos.

OFFICERS CHOSEN BY MCLELLAN Y. P. B.
McClellan Y. P. B. chose officers at the meeting entertained by the Misses Velda and Gladys Beal, last Friday evening.

Miss Ethel Wolf was chosen president; Mr. Ginn McClain, vice president; Miss Phoebe Burrell, secretary; Miss Marguerite Burrell, corresponding secretary; Mr. Harold Harner, treasurer; Miss Edna Marshall, leader.

Plans were made for a picnic at Lakeside, Dayton, July 5. The Misses Grant will be hostesses at the July meeting. After the business session, dainty refreshments were served by the Misses Beal.

Mr. C. D. Purdom, N. Galloway St., left Saturday night for Wisconsin, where he will spend some time traveling through the state on business.

Miss Dena Mills, near Cedarville, formerly of Dayton, has entered the Mullen Comptometer School, Dayton, for a special course.

CLUB MEETS TO RE-ORGANIZE FRIDAY
Miss Kathryn Cross entertained a group of girls with a covered dish supper at her home on W. Market St., Friday evening. The many delicious viands were served cafeteria style.

Later in the evening, a business session was held when the C. L. C. Club was re-organized, choosing a new name, the letters of which are, "V. J. B." Officers are: president, Miss Emma Saunders; secretary, Miss Mildred Dice; corresponding secretary, Miss Kathryn Cross.

TRUE TO LIFE AT LAST

THERE is much to be said for the latest effort of the motion picture magnates to bring realism to the screen. We have always suspected that some of our pictures of so-called fashionable life were not all they should be; but now that a full license butler with years of experience in the best English mansion has been hired to supervise the training of motion picture butlers, there is no longer any need for suspicion.

We shall now know the truth about how lords and ladies and princes and dukes behave; what they do with their napkins; how they hold their teacups, and whether they pick up silverware inadvertently dropped. There is no detail and phase of fashionable social life which this high-grade butler does not know.

This new moving picture butler-trainer, for instance, has already divulged some secrets which ought to make it easy for us to tell whether this or that screen butler is correct in every detail. Butlers, we are told, should never wear side-whiskers, better known as "mutton chops"; they should never wink at parlor maids; they should never appear in full dress at nine in the morning. And, above all, we should never represent a butler with a feather duster in his hand. Butlers never do the dusting.

Then there is the matter of who opens the door to guests. From our ordinary, unsupervised moving pictures we have learned that butlers sometimes do this. But now that Charles Green, butler de luxe among the nobility, is going to train them, our moving picture butlers henceforth will refrain from doing anything so menial as opening a door to guests. That little job will be done from now on only by footmen, unless otherwise engaged.

These things are not trivial matters at all. It is always gratifying to be able to tell the same article from the real thing—even in the case of moving picture butlers. But, above all, let us have truth, even on the screen.

THE SUMMER SCHOOL

AS public schools and institutions of higher education close their doors each year, the summer schools prepare to open to an attendance more interested and more interesting than before. There will be the usual number of students who want to "catch up" in a race in which they have been dragged back by illness, inapplication, or other cause. There will be the usual number of ambitious youngsters who are anxious to "get ahead."

No other profession requires such constant application and continued study for success as does teaching. The lawyer and the physician reputedly must be ever alert to new developments in those fields. But all who are familiar with public affairs know that many successful teachers customarily have devoted many weeks each summer to systematic study in the summer schools of colleges and universities.

Eventually, teachers in public schools will be employed upon a 12 months' basis, and a part of that time will be spent, by prescription, in an approved school or advanced study. From the standpoint of the child, a year-round school program is equally desirable, with occasional vacations, of course, and perhaps with the provision that a part of the summer months should be devoted in part, at least, to systematized play. Prolonged vacations frequently prove demoralizing to the average normal youngster. The system of summer vacations, originally of five or six months, arose from the desirability of keeping the child at home in the summer to work on the farm. But no such necessity for the average city boy or girl exists nowadays.

New ideas move slowly, but they eventually prevail if they are sound.

The reason every bird has a home is because it isn't so particular about a good neighborhood

The Theatre

"Chorus Girl Shoots Broker," "Chorine Elopes With Millionaire," "Dancer Asks Heart Balm." Every paper you pick up contains some wild and fanciful tale of the stage. But these give only sidelights into the lives of players in Broadway's musical shows.

Only recently a girl who I feared in numerous productions during the past few years suddenly became insane. Investigation disclosed she was the sole support of an invalid mother and a younger sister. The public that watched her dance and sing had no idea of the trouble she was having as head of a family.

It is nothing unusual for a chorus girl to have dependents, says Mrs. Dorothy Bryant, secretary of the Chorus Equity Association and the tasks they undertake to earn money are as versatile as the characters they perform.

With the average salary and period of employment at $50 and thirty weeks a year respectively, the girls are compelled to do other work. June to September is the casting season and their odd jobs must leave them free to search for place during this time.

During the recent craze of managers for Russians, many of the girls changed their names. The Smiths became Smithskys and the Browns, Brunetskys. Hundreds of girls go to New York from other cities, expecting to find stage employment. A surprisingly large number neither is beautiful nor equipped in any way for the chorus. Between 2,500 and 3,000 paid up members now are on the Equity's roll, which contains a total of 7,000.

"Countess Maritza," the new operetta which has become the musical sensation of Vienna and other Continental cities where it is now playing, has been selected by Messrs. Shubert as their first operetta offering of the forthcoming theatrical season.

Gloria Swanson's first picture for United Artists has been tentatively titled "Personality." Gloria has recovered from her nervous breakdown and has gone back to work at the Famous Players-Lasky studio on her new comedy, "Fine Manners."

Baking Powder Biscuits: (Requested by "Mary M.") Sift together two cups of ordinary bread flour, four teaspoons of baking powder and one-third teaspoon of salt. Into this dry mixture work two tablespoons of butter, using the finger-tips, then wet with about three-fourths of a cup of cold, sweet milk. Toss onto a lightly-floured bread board and pat down, to one-half inch in thickness; cut with a biscuit cutter, and place the little discs on a well greased pan with the edges touching. Bake fifteen minutes in a quick oven (about 400 degrees Fahrenheit, or slightly under that temperature).

Fried chicken: (Requested by "Mrs. J. B.") Have your butcher disjoint and cut up a young chicken as for fricasseeing. Roll each piece in flour, then brown in a frying pan in equal parts of lard and butter, dusting the pieces with a little salt and pepper as they fry, and turning only once (after the under side has become well browned). This frying process should take about twenty minutes. When completed, place the chicken pieces in a steamer (I use one of the three-section circular steamers, but any kind will do), dot the browned pieces with a little extra butter, and let steam over rapidly boiling water for one hour before serving. Into the frying pan in which the chicken-pieces were browned, put two or three cups of hot milk; cook over mild heat for several minutes, then thicken with enough flour-and-water paste to make of the rich consistency of ordinary gravies. The Magic Of The Medicine Man

In the pioneer days of this country, the Indian Medicine Man found in the roots and herbs of the woods and fields a remedy for almost every ailment of mankind. So potent did it prove that the relief from suffering seemed almost like magic.

From roots and herbs, Lydia E. Pinkham of Lynn, Mass., made her famous Vegetable Compound, which many women have relied upon for over fifty years.—Adv.

play and song were practiced which was later given at the Grange meeting.

Picnic supper was served in the school on account of inclement weather. The refreshment committee served lemonade and wafers.

Next meeting will be held July 1 at the school.

SIDELIGHTS

ON
Greene County History

CHANGES TIME HAS WROUGHT

The story that is true of the farmer and his plow may be duplicated in a dozen other implements. From the days of the scythe and cradle, from the days of the cradle to the time a machine was invented that would cut and bind wheat at the same time—through all of these days the farmer of Greene County had passed since 1803.

His old flail has given way to the threshing machine, his corn-knife and shucking peg has bowed to the corn-harvester and shredder, he may turn on his gasoline engine, shell his corn and even grind it; the same engine will pump his water and force it over his barn or farm; it will saw his wood, shear his sheep, clip his horses, milk his cows, churn his butter, manufacture his electric light and do a multitude of things.

There are more inventions for the use of the farmer being brought into use every year than were dreamed of 100 years ago.

Another interesting point to consider in discussing the farmer of 100 years ago is the crops he raised. Many grains, fruits, vegetables and forage and ensilage plants are now grown which were unknown a century ago.

The word alfalfa would have been mysterious to a farmer of even fifty years ago as the word hangar; a navy bean would have been as much of a curiosity as a submarine; egg plant would have been regarded with as much suspicion as a powder plant.

The pioneer grandmother raised a few tomatoes because they were nice to look at, but they were as soon have eaten a handful of huckleberries as a dish of sliced tomatoes. In those days tomatoes were considered poisonous and were raised solely for ornament, being, for some unexplainable reason affectionately known as "love apples." This name possibly follows from their supposed toxic qualities.

Celery was something to be eaten cautiously. By actual count there are as many as forty-six different vegetables grown in the gardens of Greene County today, but not one-fourth that number a century ago.

JUST NOTHING IN THE PAPER AT ALL

By Jay V. Jay

"But what perfectly fascinating styles!" Mitzi thinks to herself. This spiral trimming is so new and is carried even into the lines on which a dress is cut. Now, the dress just has spiral trims, but the coat has actual spiral capes. Who thinks of all the new things!

This hat is a lovely thing — a combination of milan straw and velvet—so unusual for midsummer! It seems to be years, too, since Mitzi has had a hat trimmed with flowers, and this wide, drooping shape is the most becoming thing ever invented by anyone any time. Perhaps—

No, probably Dad would be annoyed if she asked him for a pencil to note down the name of the shop. Besides he's turned the page. Here's another dress with spiral trimming. One of the bloused dresses, too. After all, clothes bloused at the waistline are usually becoming.

Just then Dad explodes. "Nothing in this paper but ads," he sputters. "No news that can be found with a microscope!" "Darling," says Mitzi soothingly, "let me find you the financial section. You're going to need the best advice you can get!"

Today's Talk

STRANGERS

Most of the people we meet from day to day, especially in the larger cities, or if we travel a great deal, are strangers.

They dress much the same as we do, they eat at the same tables, they stay at the same hotels, ride in automobiles much the same as we do, read the same books, and in general do about the same as we do—excepting when we choose to do something just a little out of the ordinary.

And yet, our journey through life is beset with strangers.

You, I—all of us—are strangers to somebody. And much of the time we are strangers to ourselves.

We are strangers to the bird or beast which we fail to note. We are strangers to the beautiful flower that bloomed for us but which we didn't note until we had trampled it underfoot.

We are strangers to our would-be friends.

I know a man who is worth millions. I once visited his home and he showed me his magnificent library—which someone else had bought for him. To him all those beautifully bound books were strangers, as alien as the ices of the North Pole.

Happiness is within the reach of all and yet great crowds of strangers gather about it, not knowing that their choicest lot in life is just within their grasp.

Art is near, science is near, literature is near, beauty is near, love is near. Opportunity for great service is always near.

All too often the stranger wants to be your friend. And so do the riches of life await your reach.

SEAL PACKED JUG

Be a "Seal Packed Jug Farmer"

A farmer who is equipped with a Seal Packed Jug for his work in the fields might be called "Seal Packed Jug Farmer." He is a farmer who believes in having near him everything that will help keep him cool and comfortable on hot days. You can be a "Seal Packed Jug Farmer." All you have to do is to take advantage of this opportunity of getting a Seal Packed Jug. You have probably taken your drinking water to the fields in a little crockery jug, and when you came to drink that water you found it warm, instead of cool and refreshing. With a Seal Packed Jug it's different. You put cold water in it and it stays cold—for hours. You don't have to set the jug in the shade, either. Set it in the sun if you want to—the water in the jug stays cold, refreshing and stimulating as a drink of just the same. There is nothing that is as good as cold water after you have worked long in a hot field. If you are equipped with a Seal Packed Jug you can have that cold water. Don't suffer just because you have to work where it is hot. Be a "Seal Packed Jug Farmer." This jug is fine for keeping foods fresh, too. Just the thing in which to carry your lunches. Great for touring and picnicking.

Everybody In Xenia and Vicinity Can Have One Now at a Special Price—Every Housewife Should Have One—The Gazette-Republican Are Glad To Be Able To Make This Matchless Offer.

CHANGED STATE GOVERNMENT ISSUE IN MINNESOTA VOTING

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 21.—A campaign with reorganization of the state government as the dominant issue was at an end today when Minnesota voted in Republican and Farmer-Labor primary elections on candidates for governor and other state officers.

Renomination on the Republican ticket is being sought by Gov. Theodore Christianson. Opposed to him is George E. Leach, Mayor of Minneapolis. Minnesota's interest is centered on this contest although in the Farmer-Labor primary, the political future of Magnus Johnson, former United States Senator is being determined.

Christianson and Leach have campaigned up and down the state for the last three weeks over the governor's scheme for reorganizing state departments which was approved by the 1925 legislature. The "watchdog" committee of finance and administration, whose members are appointed by the governor, drew opposition not only from Leach, but also from the Farmer-Labor party.

Pursuing an economy campaign, Christianson has been consolidating state departments, slashing salaries, and in other ways reducing the number of political plums. The inevitable protest from patronage seekers has followed. But the real issue is the "watchdog" committee, composed of Henry Rines, comptroller; A. J. Peterson, budget commissioner; and H. W. Austin, purchasing agent all named by the governor. Leach asserts the committee is not "responsive" to the will of the voters and would elect instead of appointing some or all of its members.

Tapeworms are of three kinds—one derived from the cow, another from the pig, and the third from fish. They cause a ravenous appetite, malnutrition, an anemic tendency, diarrhea and some abdominal pain. The presence of the parasite can also be verified by the appearance of a segment of the worm in the stools, the length of which segment may vary from one to several inches. The tape worm, which inhabits the small intestine, grows to a length of from six to twenty or more feet, and is the largest of all parasites that infest the human organism.

The roundworm is another common intestinal parasite. It usually infests children and is small, varying from six to twelve inches in length. In appearance it resembles an earthworm and a considerable number may be present in the body at the same time. The symptoms are nervous and restless irritation, at times becoming convulsive in nature. Unless present in large numbers these worms cause few symptoms.

The thread-worm or pinworm is from a quarter to a half an inch in length. It inhabits the colon or lower bowel, and migrates to the anus where it causes intense itching.

In the treatment of tapeworm a long fast is an essential. This fast will usually have to continue from ten to twenty days. Activity of the bowels should be promoted by the use of saline or oil laxatives or by infusion of garlic as an enema. If, however, you do not care to try a long fast, you can fast for two or three days, making a meal of macerated pumpkin seeds on the third day and the same on the fourth day. Take from four to six ounces of these seeds and drink as much water with them as you crave—in fact it would be better for you to drink a large quantity of water on the days that you use the seeds. The water can be hot or cold in accordance with the desires of the patient. Fats of all kinds should be avoided.

Every available means for adding to your vital functional vigor is, of course of value in ridding yourself of the parasite. Hot and cold sitz baths are particularly beneficial provided you recuperate with a feeling of warmth thereafter.

ENLARGED STATE PARK FACILITIES ARE CALLING MILLIONS OF VACATIONISTS

WASHINGTON, June 21.—Now that summer is upon us, millions of Americans are looking toward the state and national parks for their vacations. With the national parks all located in the west and usually difficult of access, more attention is being paid to the rapidly increasing state parks, scattered in forty-three out of the forty-eight states.

Plans for enlarging and bettering vacation facilities were considered at the sixth national conference on state parks at Hot Springs, Ark., June 14 to 16.

The tremendous increase was depicted in a statement issued by the National Geographic Society, outlining recent remarkable gains in the southern states.

Tennessee and Virginia have created Conservation Commissions with state park powers. Florida and Mississippi have created forestry departments with recreational provisions, Alabama has acquired a state park committee, Louisiana will add a state park division to its Conservation Commission.

Arkansas is acquiring a comprehensive state park system; Oklahoma is working to the same end through its forestry and game commission; and Texas, which last year reported its record of fifty-two park sites received by gift, is improving them for public recreation.

Some of the state parks rival national parks in size and scenic beauty: Adirondack Park in New York, with 1,850,000 acres owned by the State is exceeded only by Yellowstone; Custer State Park, in South Dakota, of 170,000 acres is of national park standard. Other large state parks are the Catskill, of 150,000 acres; the Alleghany, of 60,000 acres and the Palisades, Interstate Park, 45,000 acres, in New York, the Northern Forest Park, in Wisconsin, of 95,000 acres; and Itasca Lake State Park, in Minnesota, including the source of the Mississippi of 32,000 acres. New York leads in number of preserves allied under a central state agency, the Council of Parks, with a total of 90; Michigan has 56 state parks; Texas 52; Iowa 38; Minnesota 18; Washington 17; Pennsylvania leads in state forests, all of which serve for varied outdoor recreation, with a total of 1,131,000 acres.

Among the notable additions to the more than 500 state parks throughout the country, during the past year, are the preservation of part of the famous Indiana dunes on Lake Michigan, as an Indiana State Park; conservation of the forest surroundings of the Great Stone Face, of Hawthorne's Tale, the marvelous profile in Franconia Notch, as a New Hampshire State Forest; establishment of entirely new state park system in Missouri and Kentucky; acquisition of Tongue Mountain, between the arms of Lake George in New York, as part of the state forest preserve; and of notable caves and gorges in southeastern Ohio by the State Forestry Department.

Historic sites, which are preserved in many state parks, have been increased by such additions as Fort Macon, in North Carolina; old French and early American forts in Alabama and memorials of frontier days in North Dakota.

SHOOTS WIFE AND COMMITTS SUICIDE

AKRON, O., June 21.—A divorce action was assigned today as the motive for the suicide of Orling Davenport, 44, a carpenter, who before killing himself, shot and perhaps fatally wounded his wife, Mrs. Davenport, who instituted the divorce proceedings, was near death today. After firing a bullet into his head, Davenport slashed his throat. He died within a few minutes.

LARGEST CHILDREN'S CHORUS IN WORLD HEARD AT CHICAGO

CHICAGO, June 21.—The voices of 60,000 children welled through the giant Soldiers' Field today as world's largest chorus sang the Mass of the Angels at the second general session of the Twentieth International Eucharistic Congress.

Children from all of Chicago's parochial schools, garbed in acolytes and white gowns and veils, stood massed in front of Princes of the Church, bishops, priests and laymen—numbering more than 100,000 and sang the centuries old mass.

It was the crowning feature to date, of the resplendent church fête.

The setting was a masterpiece in color. High on each side of the stadium were the gleaming white pillars of memorial stadium with the western skyline showing the colossal buildings of Chicago's business district and the eastern skyline dipping into Lake Michigan.

Inside the stadium stood the churchmen. The uniformed clergymen, their costumes contrasting noticeably with the garb of the laymen, stood with bowed heads as the "child chorus" voiced the beautiful mass.

The chorus itself massed by the altar. There were children of five and six and young folks of seventeen and eighteen. The boys wore the acolytes—church altar costume—while the girls wore white dresses with white veils. Mingled in the crowd of youthful singers could be seen the occasional garb of a military school student, contrasting noticeably with the other costumes of the singers.

It will Pay You to Know the MAYTAG

IT WILL pay you to know the Maytag. Pay you in time saved—in work made easier—in clothes washed cleaner. Prove this in your own home—do a week's washing, free—at our expense and without obligation of any kind.

See how much cleaner your clothes are washed—without hand-rubbing, even of collars and cuffs, neckbands and wristbands, and every piece immaculate—spotlessly clean.

Just think! The Maytag washes the finest silks and laces as gently as by hand. Washes work-clothes—stiff with grease, and play-clothes—grimy with dirt, as clean as new, in not over 10 minutes. Washes a big tubful of ordinary clothes in 3 to 7 minutes. Washes 50 pounds of dry clothes—a whole washing—in one short hour.

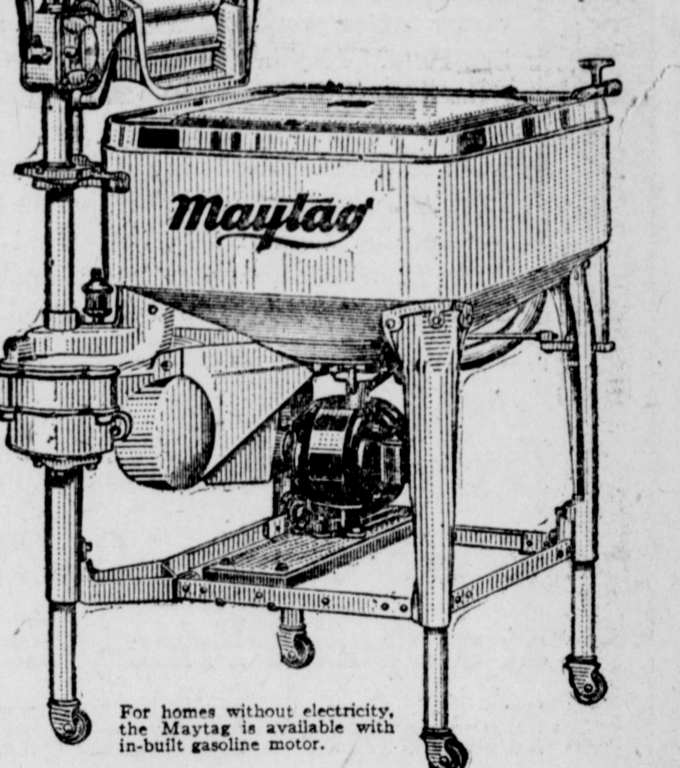

Water stays hot in the satin-smooth, self-cleaning, cast aluminum tub throughout an entire, big washing. Water is always clean because the dirt is held in the sediment trap beneath the gyrator.

Let us furnish a Maytag for your next week's washing. Give it every washing test, examine carefully its many better features. Then—if it doesn't sell itself to you, don't keep it.

9 Outstanding Maytag Features

- 1 Washes faster.
- 2 Washes cleaner.
- 3 Largest capacity. Tub holds 21 gallons.
- 4 Most compact washer made—takes floor space only 25 inches square.
- 5 Cast aluminum tub—can't warp, rot, swell, split nor corrode—cleans itself.
- 6 Easily adjusted to your height.
- 7 Clothes can be put in or taken out with the washer running.
- 8 All metal wringer. Self-adjusting. Instant tension-release.
- 9 Electric motor for wired homes—Gasoline motor where no electricity is available.
